OUR SCHOOL LOCALE LONGITUDES

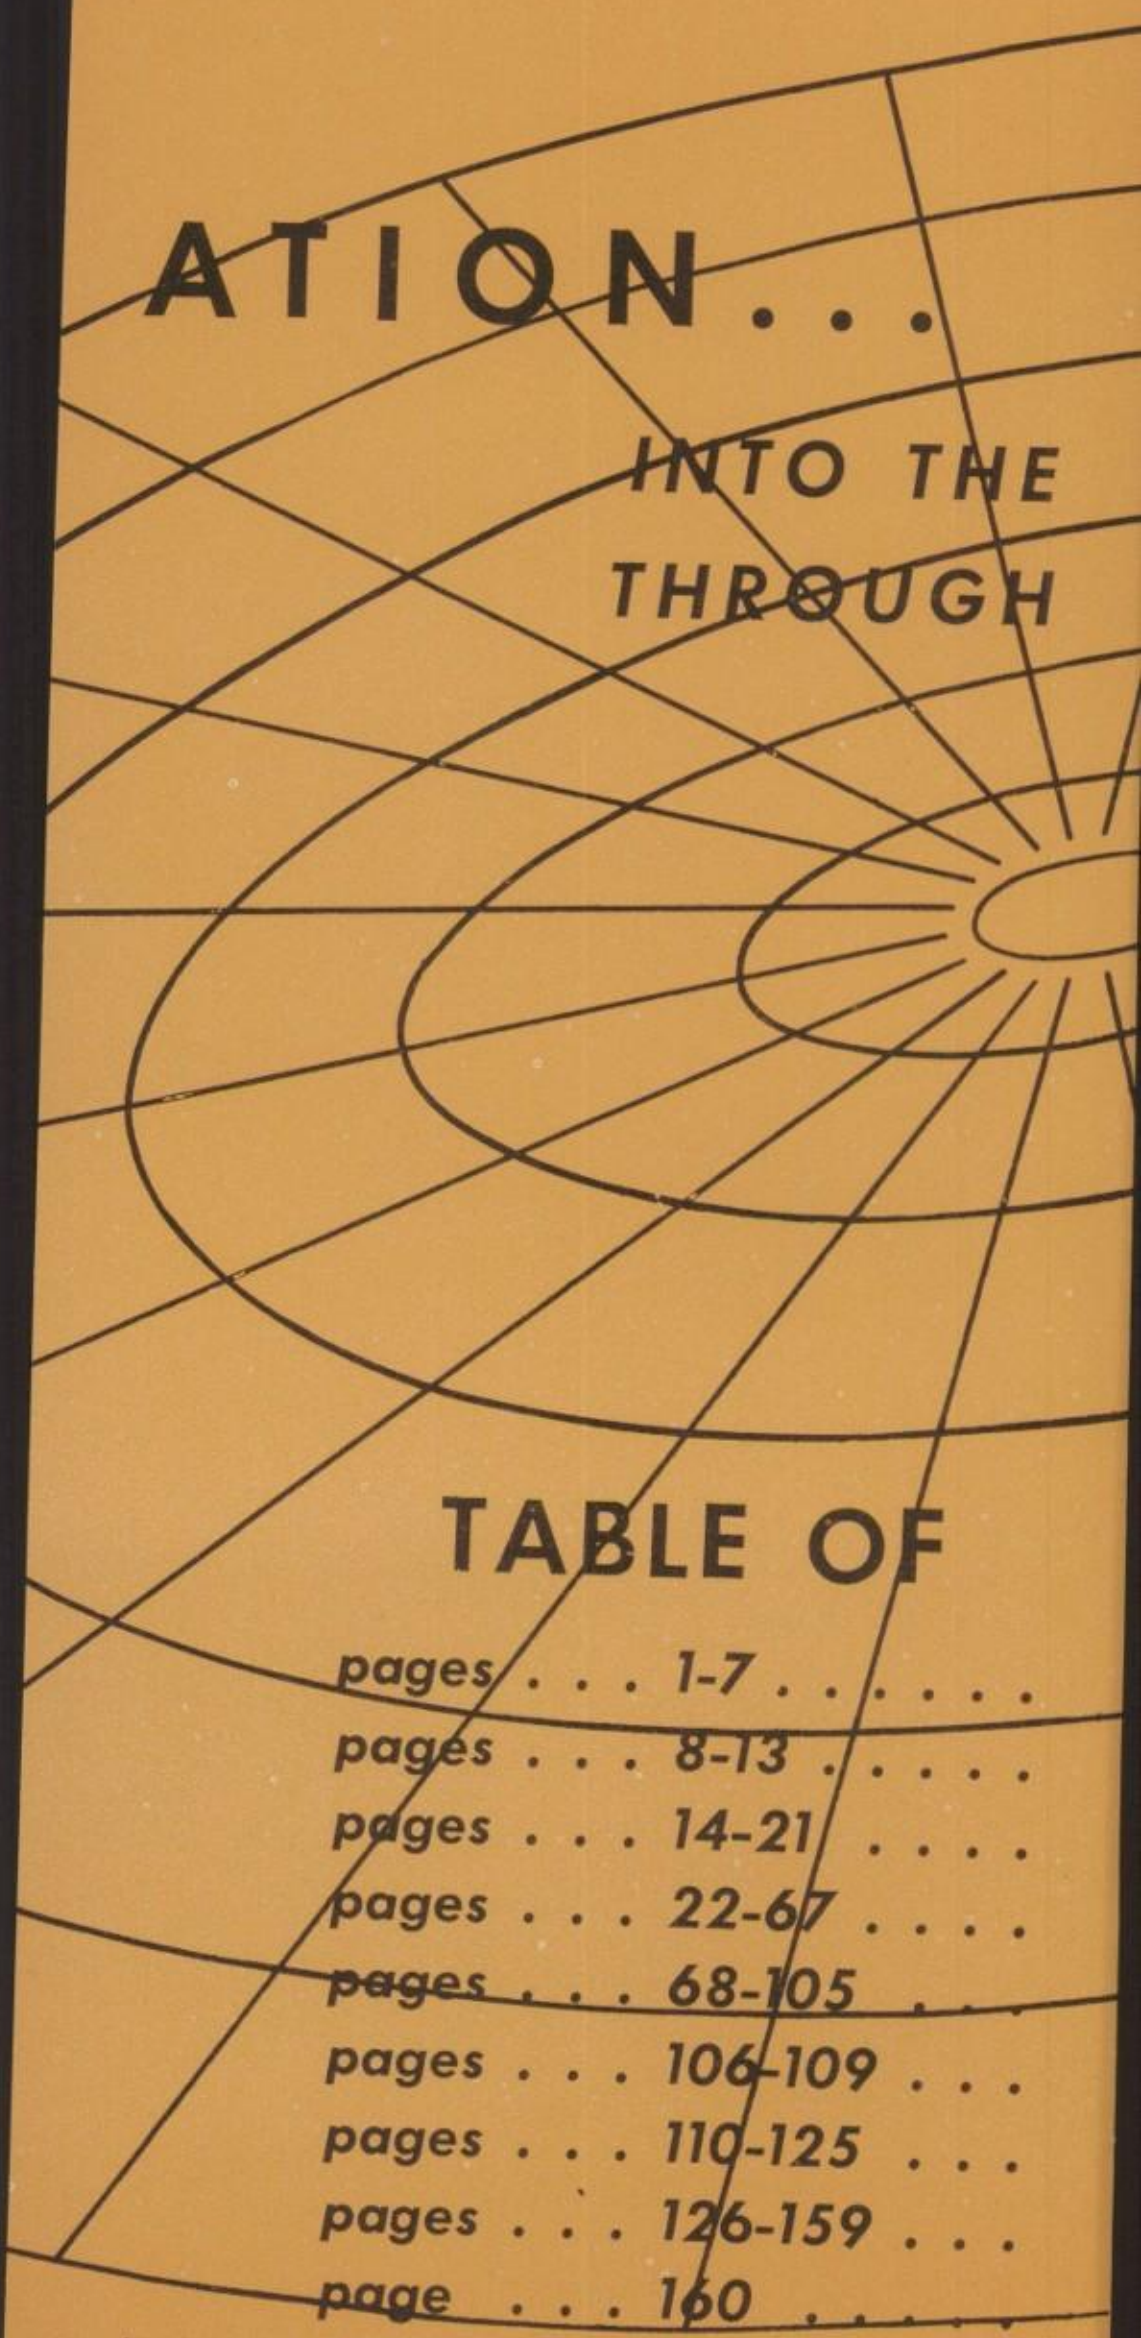

FOUR SCORE and many more centuries ago, Our Father brought forth to this emptiness a new universe, conceived in His divine will and dedicated to His honor and glory. Now we are engaged in an International Geophysical Year, testing and studying our world and the many other worlds of our universe. We have decided to dedicate our yearbook to this study of the marvels which the Lord has bestowed on this creation. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this, but in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, consecrate, or hallow this earth, water, air, and space. He who created them deserves the honors far more than we have the power to give. The world may little note what we say or picture here, but it is our hope that this publication of the students, by the students, and for the students of Central Catholic shall not fail to honor the Supreme Geophysicist.

THE MOST REVEREND JOHN F. DEARDEN, S.T.D., Bishop of Pittsburgh.

SINCE JULY, 1957, and continuing officially till December, 1958, some 7,000 scientists from sixty-six nations have undertaken an immense amount of study of the earth and its environment. This global venture of eighteen months has been designated as the International Geophysical Year in which the 2,500,000,000 men on earth will transcend the local barriers of geography, culture, habit and will share their research of the materials and forces that compose our universe.

FILTER TO US THE OF KNOWLEDGE

Thus we will, as it were, come full circle when, through the study of the rocks, waters, sun, continents, great ocean currents, and sky, new concepts and basic laws may suggest the simplicity and unity in the diversity of nature. The investigation falls into three major groups: the study of the upper atmosphere; the ever-changing mixture of air and water in which we are immersed, the lower atmosphere; and the solid earth itself.

ELECTRICALLY GRACE, FILTER FROM BEYOND

JUST AS ORDINARY man cannot truly see the sun and the stars because so much of their light is absorbed by the atmosphere, so the high school student cannot absorb the cosmic rays and meteors of a Christian education merely by association with knowledge. In the diocese of Pittsburgh, these rays of education penetrate our minds and wills through the education at Central Catholic. Under the direction of His Excellency, Most Reverend John F. Dearden, S.T.D., Bishop of Pittsburgh, and Most Reverend Coleman F. Carroll, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop, the diocesan system of education progresses through the genius of Very Rev. Monsignor John B. McDowell, Ph.D., Superintendent of Schools, and Rev. Leo Henry, M.A., Assistant Superintendent. Directly, our education has been guided and formed by the sons of St. John Baptist de LaSalle, the Christian Brothers, who, with devoted lay teachers, staff Central. And, we may add, our educational atmosphere seems tested and proved superior in that both the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of schools are numbered among our Alumni.

KNOWLEDGE

FORECASTING OF

CONTACTED WITH celestial rays that on our level of education are represented through our instructors and the graces of our Faith, we move to the second area of our investigation: the ever-changing mixture of air and water in which we are immersed, the lower atmosphere. The daily variations which for us mean weather seem definitely determined by the sun's rays, evaporation of water, differences in pressure, glaciers, and ice fields. And as this knowledge will lead to such practical help as more accurate forecasting of weather and general "behavior" of the earth itself, so through the researches of our high school life we feel a more accurate forecasting of our future and of our spiritual, intellectual, and social behavior becomes possible. Therefore, the classes and extra-curricular activities which form our intellectual atmosphere are, like the weather itself, global, rather than notoriously local.

LEDGE

INTELLECTUAL THROUGH OUR OUR EXTRA-CLASS

AT THE END of the eighteen month period of IGY, billions of pieces of information about the earth and its environs will have been amassed. In like manner, at the end of our four years of high school, through the individual subjects studied and through the extra-curricular opportunities that Central offers, countless bits of knowledge and experience that will be useful for our future become part of us. Our areas of study include the academic, the scientific, and the commercial. Basically, our courses are geared to the ability of college-bound students. Our atmosphere of activities is even more varied. Ranging from religious activities, which, on the level of Catholic Action, try to associate school activity with parish activity, to school publications, Art Club, Glee Club, Railroad Club, individual subject Honor Societies activities, exclusive of athletics, appeal to universal interests.

OF OUR ATMOSPHERE COMES STUDIES AND INTERESTS

"ITE, MISSA EST . . . And may your school year be blessed," was the wish of Father Malcolm, C.P., Retreat Master, as he offered the final Mass of the student retreat on the first Friday of October.

GOTHIC MAJESTY towers over the lines of Centralites as they enter St. Paul's Cathedral for the opening of the school year and the Mass of the Holy Ghost. Very Rev. John B. McDowell, Ph.D., Superintendent of Schools, offered the Mass and delivered the sermon.

Font and Finis of Each School Year

SOLEMNITY marks the end of each school year as the seniors trek to St. Paul's Cathedral for the annual Baccalaureate Mass. The Baccalaureate Mass, usually held on Memorial Day to enable parents to participate with their sons at Mass and Communion, represents the beginning of the closing exercises of the four years at Central.

"FEED THE HUNGRY" is the counsel followed by members of the Central St. Vincent de Paul Society, who, under the direction of Brother D. Jerome, regularly transport goods to the Little Sisters of the Poor. The donations this year warranted a special note of gratitude from Sister Odile, Superior of the Sisters.

UNITING OUR OFFERING with his, Father Malcolm, C.P., Retreat Master, receives the wine and water from Eugene Dice and John Larkin. As has been done for three years, the retreat was divided throughout a week period with the freshmen and sophomores receiving the first two and a half days and the juniors and seniors a similar period at the end of the week.

ED ROGERS, member of Brother Maurice's Archconfraternity group, performs weekly his task of checking and filling the holy water fonts throughout the school.

Setting Sights Superior to Science

ENERGETIC EXTROVERTS can have a place in life even in the Archconfraternity, especially when their work is directed by Brother Maurice. Showing religious posters that they regularly distribute throughout the school are K. Morris, F. Vucic, J. Palovitch (kneeling), and J. Orosz.

THE FIRST MEMENTO in the Mass as expressed officially in the Missale Romaum forms the subject of interest that Brother Dominic Maurice, Adviser to religious activities, utilizes with his ADC officers. Officers pictured here in the sacristy of the Brothers' Chapel are Robert Albright, Francis Vucic, Edward Schleicher, and James Orosz.

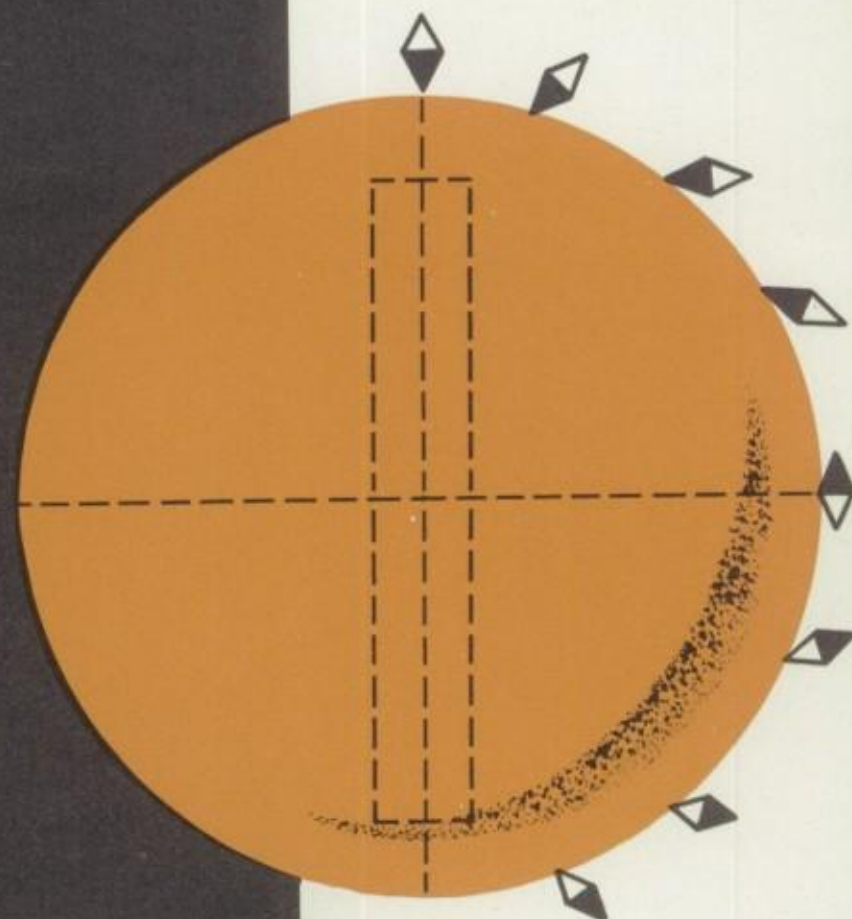

TEACHING CATECHISM in the parishes throughout the Pittsburgh area that cannot accommodate all possible students in their parochial schools falls within the works of the A.D.C. Here junior Frank McNulty, under the direction of Brother Maurice, demonstrates a catechetical technique.

UNSUNG HERO, Leroy DiPietro conscientiously performs his regular task of replenishing the holy water fonts throughout the school. Besides this particular chore, the A.D.C. directs religious activities throughout the year that vary from teaching catechism to outdoor devotions.

GATHERED in the Brothers' Chapel, the members of the religious activities that function in the school include the Archconfraternity of the Divine Child, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Benilde Club, and the St. John Vianney Society. The latter two organizations are designed primarily as vocation clubs.

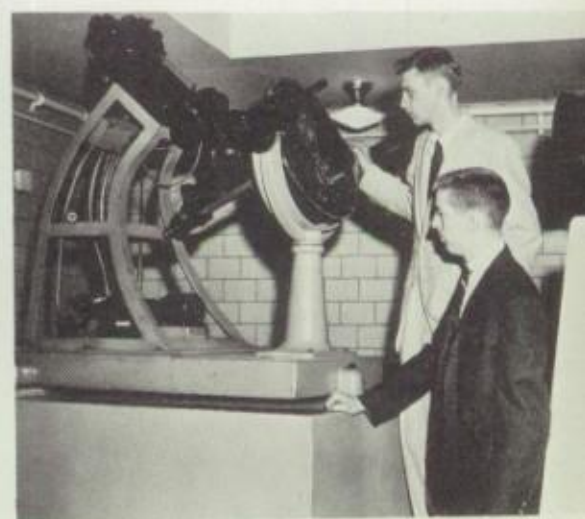

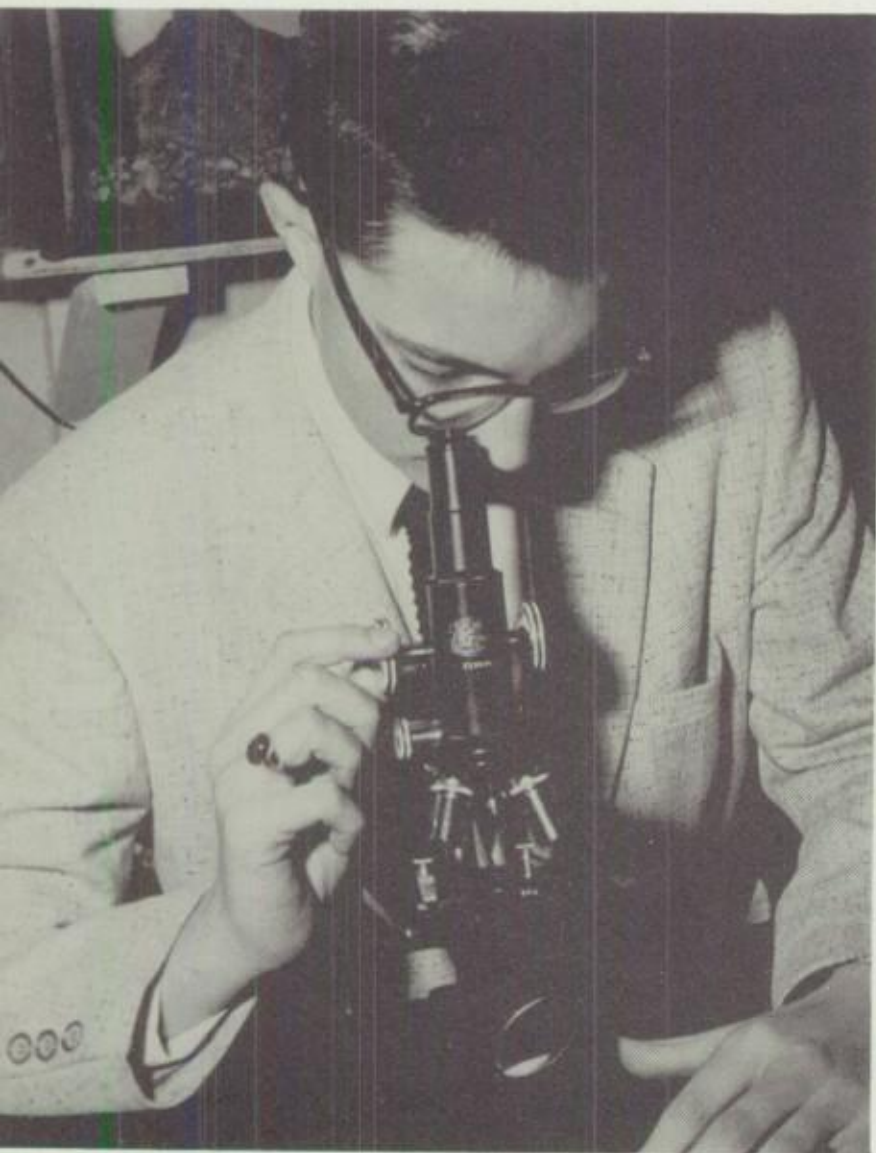

Begin

Scientific Observations

. . . OFFICIALLY, science begins for Central students with the biology classes of the sophomore year. Yet, alert students are instinctively aware of the myriad things that comprise the universe, and they try to discover the relations between them. Thus, scientific study, in an effort to simplify and unify the diversity in nature, begins before the individual sciences formally attempt to make this world comprehensible. It is, therefore, the solid earth that is the basis of geophysical science. Here we penetrate that earth through our classes and activities.

ONE OF THE TWO reflecting telescopes of this type in the country provides an afternoon of interest for two of Brother Gregory's physics students, Mike McSorley and John Harris. Through the courtesies extended to Central through the Buhl Planetarium, students can take advantage of such an instrument as this which, through the mirror that attracts the students, presents the Milky Way in reflection.

PEERING INTO the world of minute animal and plant life, John Ostapkowicz adjusts the microscope as he attempts to clarify the image. A member of the Biology Club, John regularly attends the extra-curricular microtechnique classes taught by Brother E. Richard, the moderator of the club.

PREPARATION OF SLIDES for microtechnique classes is one of the functions of the Biology Club. Aiding in the job are (seated) J. Gurski, J. Schwarcz, E. Kolczynski, T. Dulski; (standing) W. Ley, J. Smith, J. Moslener, W. Brandt, R. Szronos, R. Kuszyk, D. McClenahan.

TESTING FOR TITRATION, Anthony Krysik and Edward Barvick of Brother Nicholas' chemistry class try to determine the strength of HCl .

Exploits in Explanation

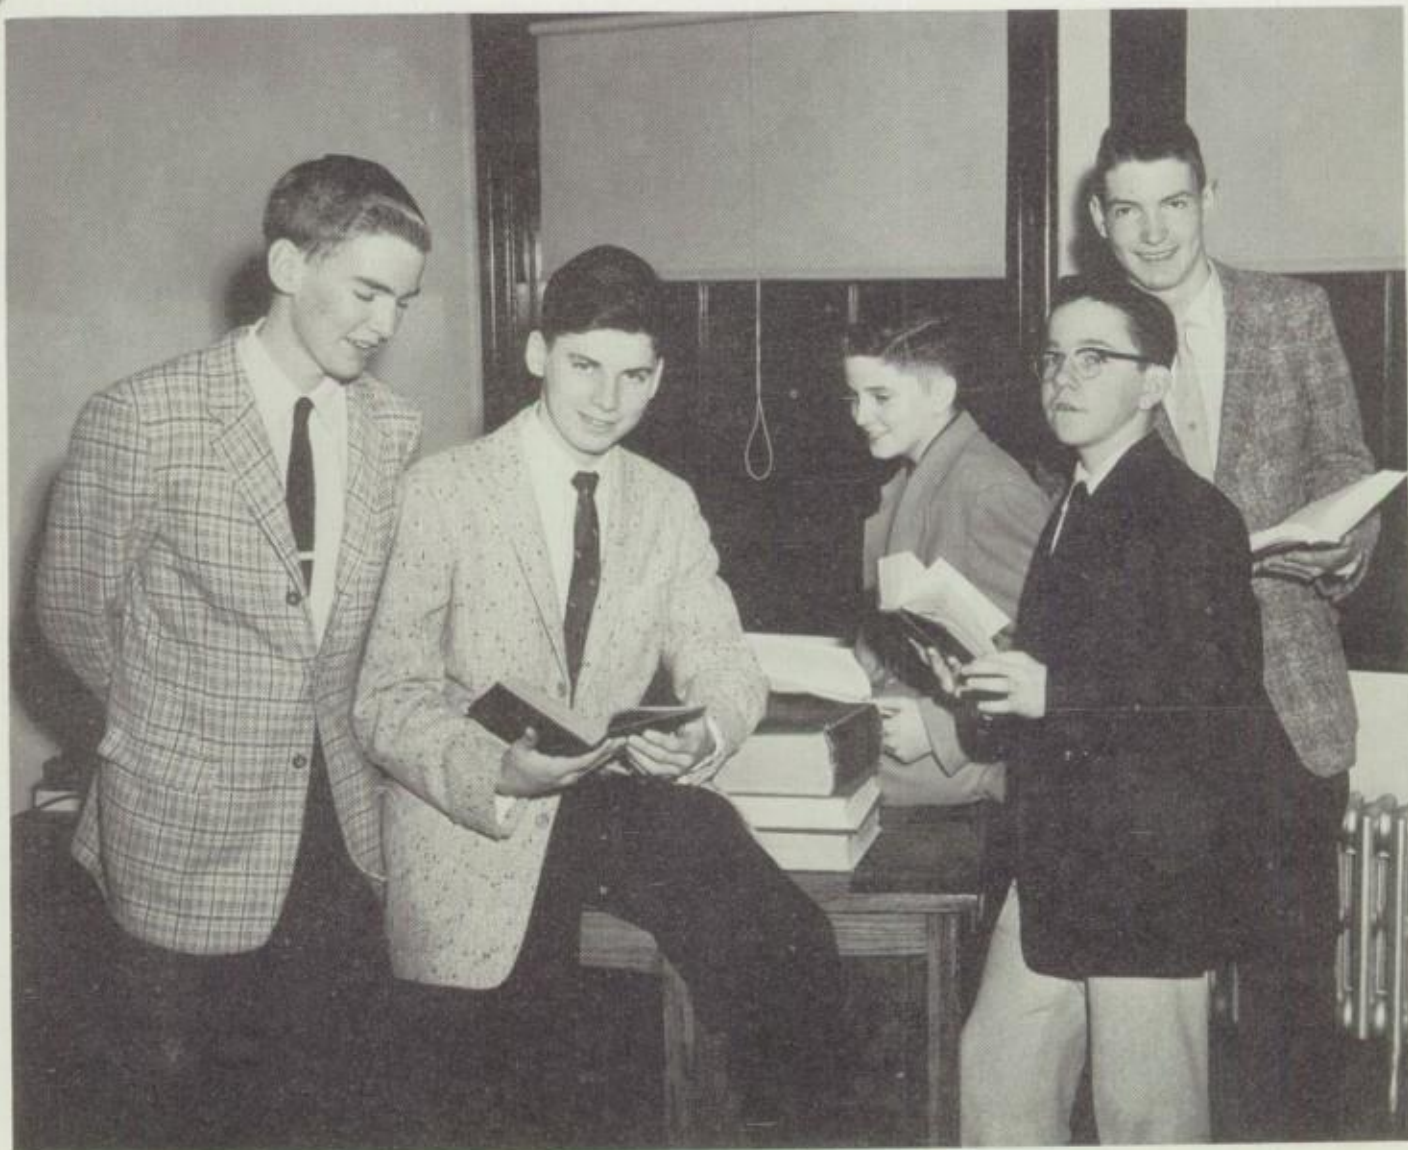

DEBATER DELUXE, Dave Clement, takes time to glance at the camera while preparing an argument on this year's topic of "Foreign Aid."

STUDYING THE EXPRESSIVE ACTIONS of seasoned veteran Dave Clement, the underclass members of the Speech Club's declamation and humor contingent seek valuable assistance from their senior president. They are (standing) J. Contrucci, J. Carey, P. Leavy, A. Bartlett; (seated) T. Crimmins and L. Modzelewski.

DISCUSSING FUTURE PLANS in the extemporaneous speech section, J. Murray, J. Dean, F. Conn, J. O'Brien and H. Gailliot seem enthusiastic about the topics assigned them. These elocutionists played an important role in establishing Central as an outstanding member of the Diocesan Forensic League.

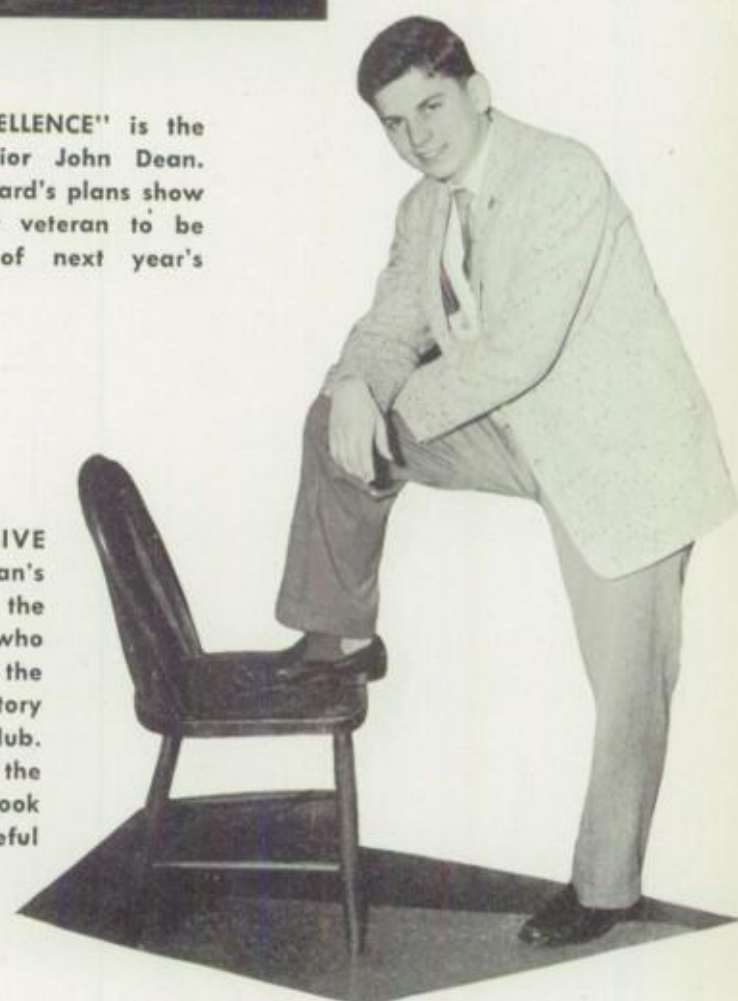

GATHERING AROUND President Dave Clement, the other officers of the Speech Club, R. Dickinson, J. Murray, and J. Dean, consolidate information for use in future debates. These four members, who make up the "A"-team in debate, showed the fruit of their summer courses at Pitt by compiling one of the best records in the school's history.

"EXTEMP EXCELLENCE" is the theme of junior John Dean. Brother D. Richard's plans show this two year veteran to be the nucleus of next year's team.

EXTENDING CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM to R. Waisman's work, C. Mancuso helps the new student from Japan, who has shown promise in the Drama and Original Oratory department of the Speech Club. M. Skrock and R. Bogucki, the other sectional members, look on in hope of gathering useful information.

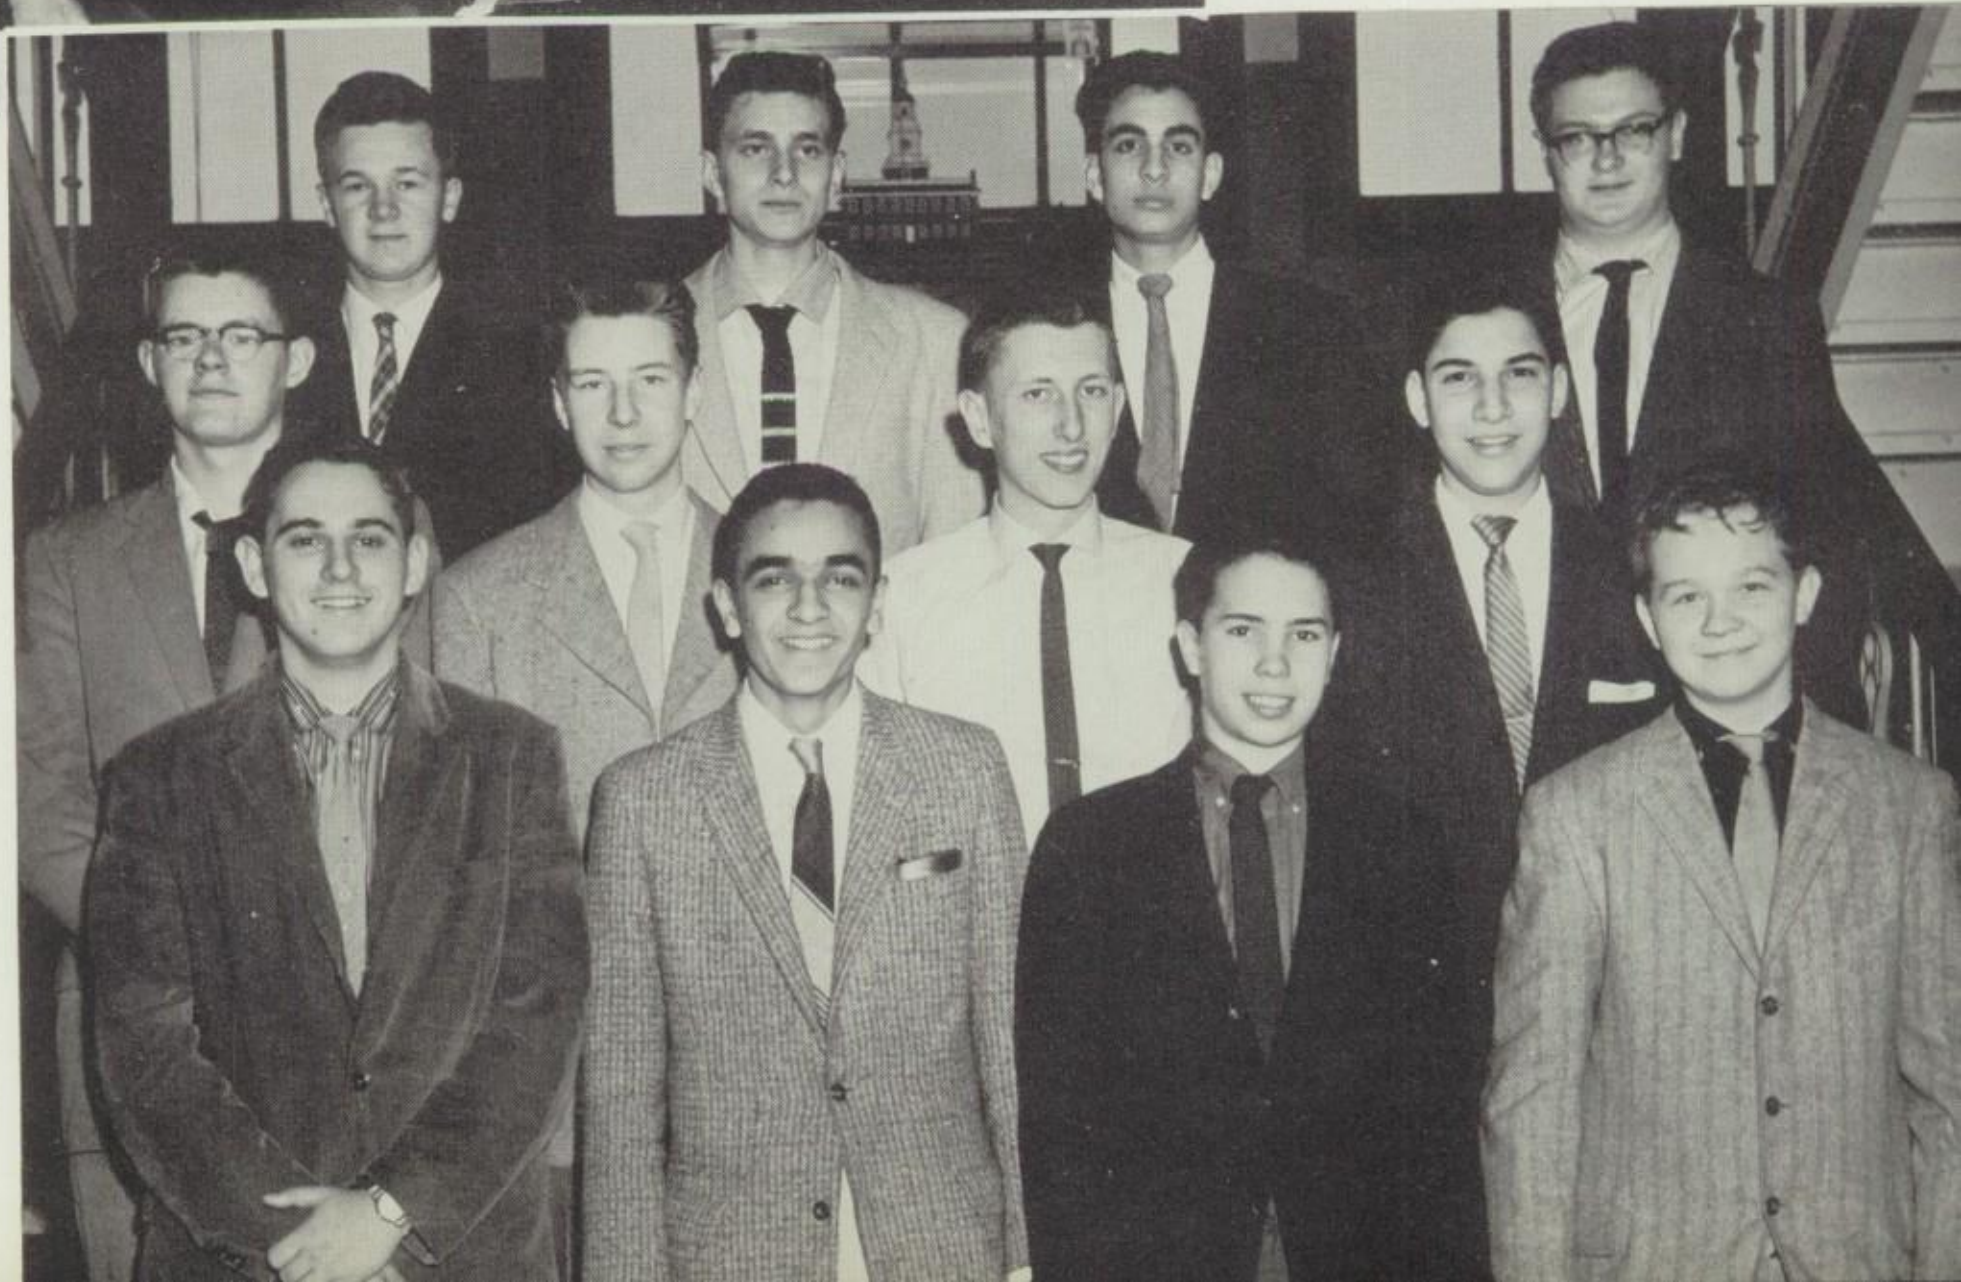

Vibrating Personalities

WITH THE BACKDROP of the radio map of the United States, Tim Crimmins (seated at the right) contacts the wider world with information of local import. As Dennis Dzura works the receiving end of the communication, fellow Radio Club members Edward Gehl and Alvery Bartlett stand by to correct any mistakes of their contemporaries.

TO REACH GERMANY seems to be quite a task to the skeptical Radio Club onlookers, Conrad Grabowski, Carl Walzer, and John Cuda. German Exchange Student, Klemens Toebe-Schwegmann, however, smiles with a Germanic know-how as he tunes in to his home in Saxony.

THE SLANG EXPRESSION, "Not a dirty rat in the place," becomes a truism really graphic in the biology laboratory as the officers of the Biology Club appear with their clean rodent menagerie. While Robert Carroll cuddles the springly rat, John Dean looks toward you. Anthony Krysik holds the other rodent that fellow junior Jim Murray seems to shy away from.

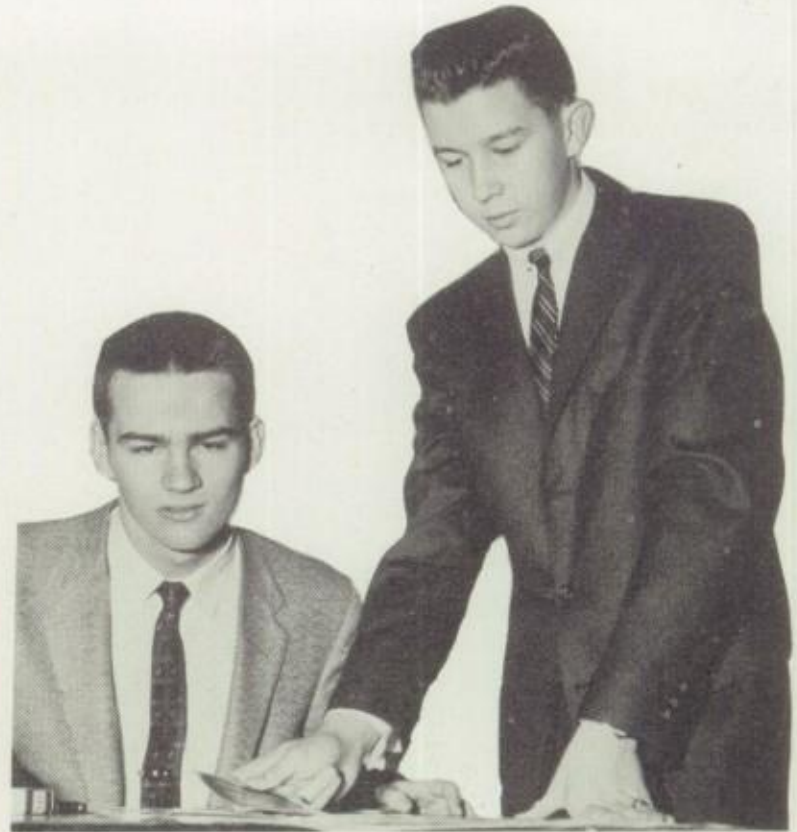

EXECUTIVE SUITE in room 406½ finds the officers of the Central Radio Club who, under moderator Brother F. Vincent, display some of their electronic equipment and their cinemascopic map of the United States. Club officers for the current air year are Paul Rakow, Richard Pryor, John Harper, and Samuel Passafiume.

Converting Energy into

THE DIFFERENCE between the good and the better newspaper is the goal of W. Sproule, P. Coyne, R. Hughes, and L. Romito as they scan one of the many school papers mailed to the Publications Office. Through such diligent efforts, this year's staff hopes to maintain the high standards set by its VIKING predecessors.

POWERS OF THE PAPER—The success of the VIKING stemmed mainly from the efforts of these boys who formed the editorial staff. Tom Carney the Associate Editor, aids Dick Deasy in one of the final steps of production—pasting the "dummy."

THE HIERARCHY—Dick Deasy and Phil McGuire, editors of the paper and yearbook, respectively, confer with their moderator, Brother Francis Emery. As Brother points out several suggestions, Phil seems to have decided already as to their acceptability, while Dick is non-committal.

Reading Matter

THE BLIND leading the blind—Al Zangrilli and Joe Contrucci offer advice to Joe O'Brien as he re-writes an article. The journalists spent many hours in the publications office re-writing, proofreading galley-sheets, and pasting the "dummy" in preparation for another outstanding issue of the VIKING.

THE NEWEST ADDITION to the publications' retinue, an electric coffee pot, a gift of the '57 class 2 SS, proved a God-send to Brother Nicholas. At Brother's oft-repeated request for more, Mark Jordan prepares to pour the "black gold" while Dave Clement watches with amazement.

DICK DEASY, Editor-in-Chief of the VIKING, pauses a moment in the midst of his busy schedule. After a three year apprenticeship as an associate editor, Dick occupied the top post of the staff in this, his senior year.

ORDERS FROM THE BOSS—The handling of innumerable minute details proved the most time-consuming of Phil McGuire's tasks. Here, Phil reads a list of prospective jobs to several of his more consistent aides—J. Bender, A. Kozak, R. Sulka, J. Phillips, and J. Giovanelli.

PREVIEW of the '58 cover, featuring the International Geophysical Year theme, provides foreground in the Publications' Office for Mike Supura and moderator Brother Francis Emery.

Book of the Year 1958 TOWERS

PRIME MOVERS—Len Young, Phil McGuire, Dick Deasy, and Tom Carney scan the yearbook dummy as they pool their talents for the benefit of both the paper and yearbook. The cooperation of these boys resulted in successful publications throughout the year.

CAUGHT BY SURPRISE—Philip McGuire interrupts his work at the "pop" of a flash bulb. Phil directed work on all sections of the yearbook, prepared picture lists and schedules, and, in brief, did his best to make the '58 TOWERS the finest yearbook in Central's history.

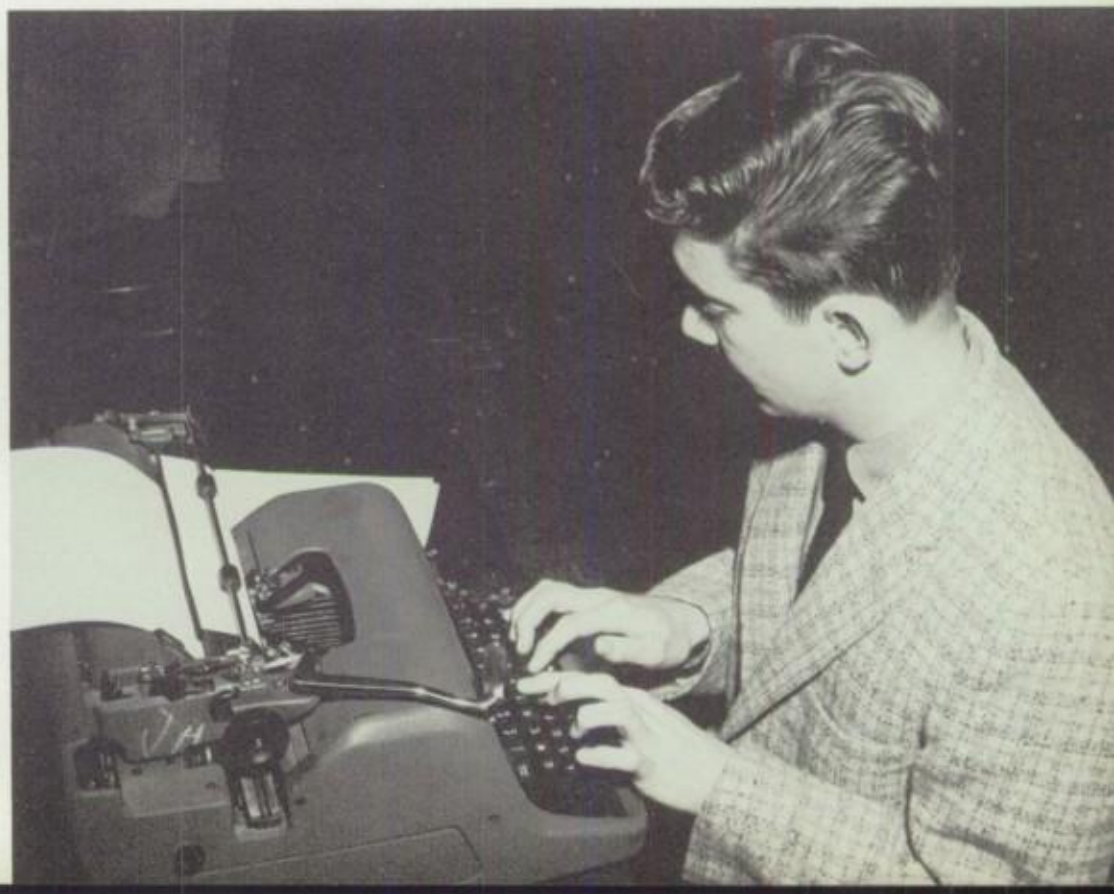

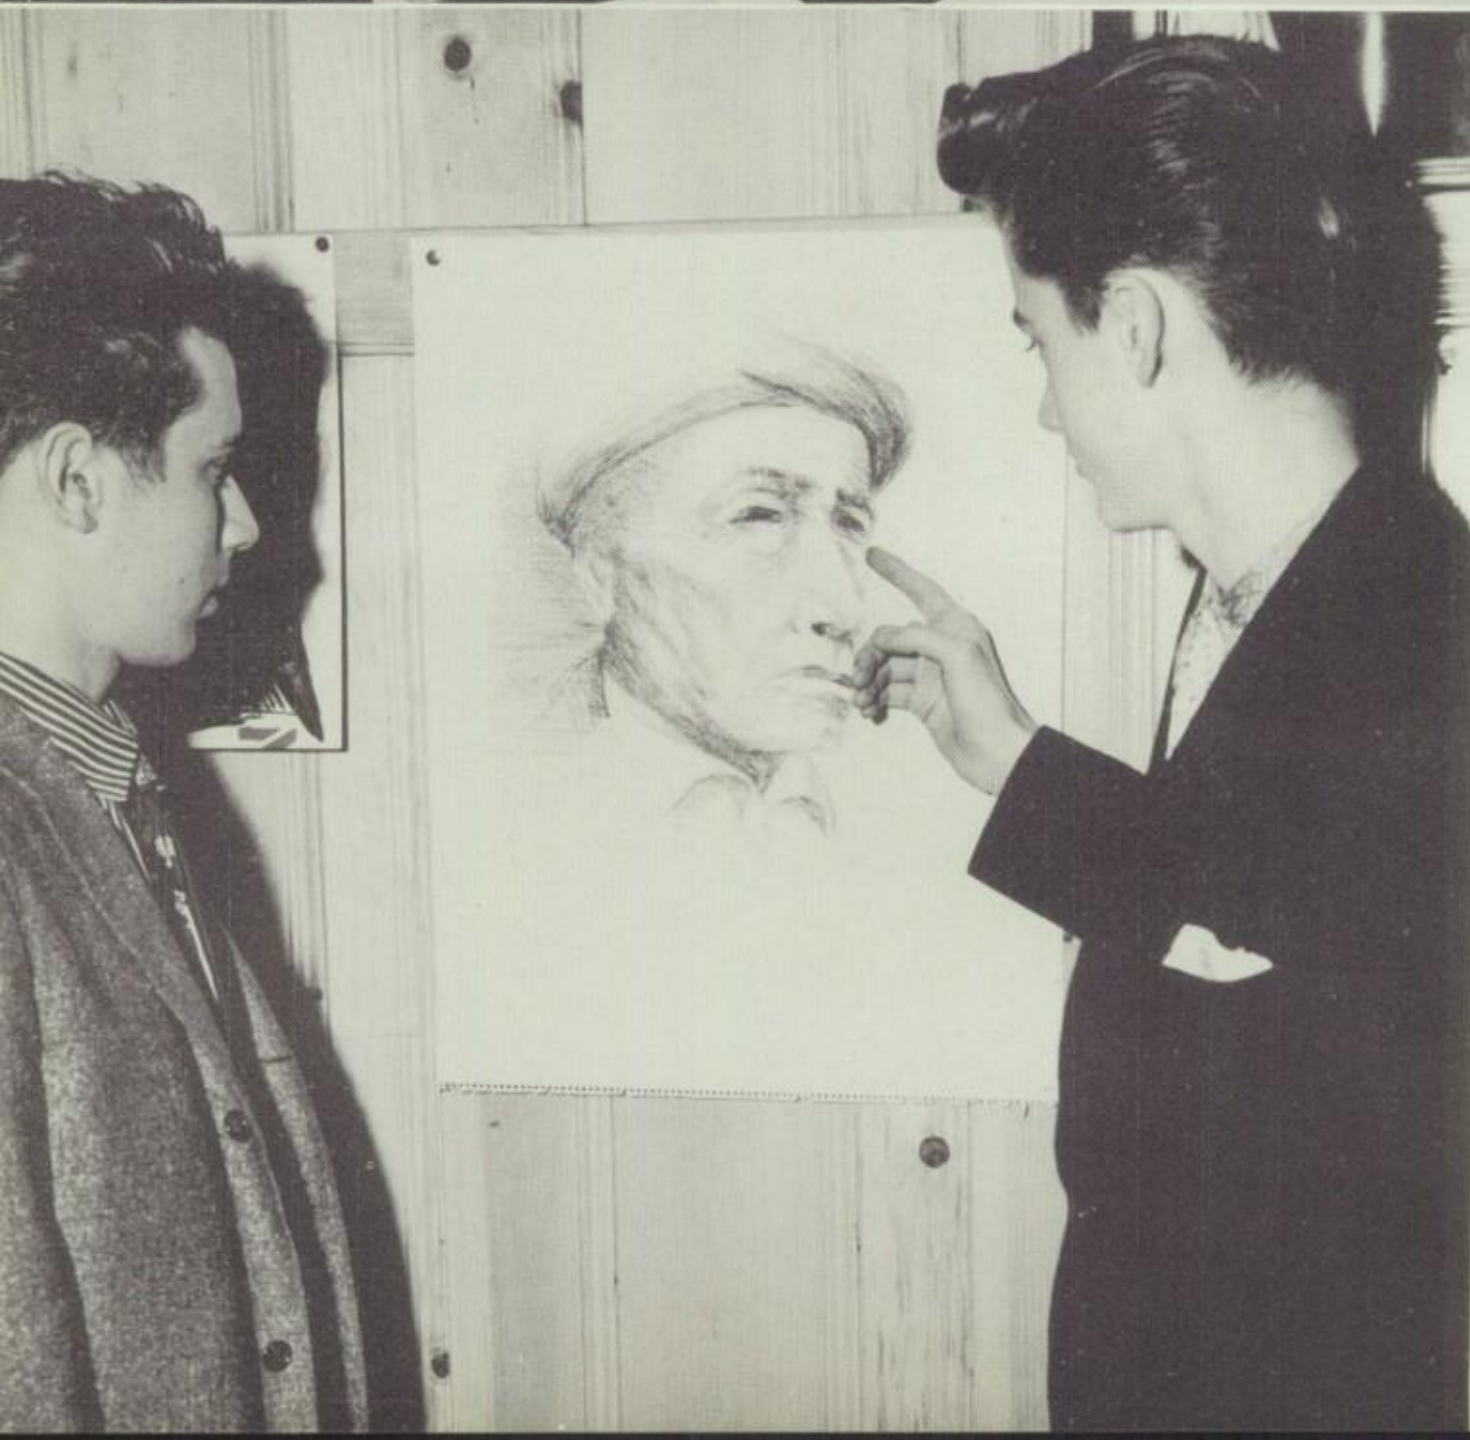

TOM CARNEY, Associate Editor, besides dedicating himself unselfishly for untold hours in yearbook work, provided much of the wit and science in the 1958 edition of your TOWERS.

WESTINGHOUSE'S Betty Furness flashes her best smile as she attempts to increase '58 TOWERS sales. Posing with her are Dick Hughes and Dick Wingerson, both of whom proved to be supersalesmen during the sales campaign which extends from November 11 to November 27.

CHICK DAVIES handled the majority of the typing connected with the efficient production of a yearbook. Davies typed the entire senior and faculty sections, and, in addition, prepared sales receipts.

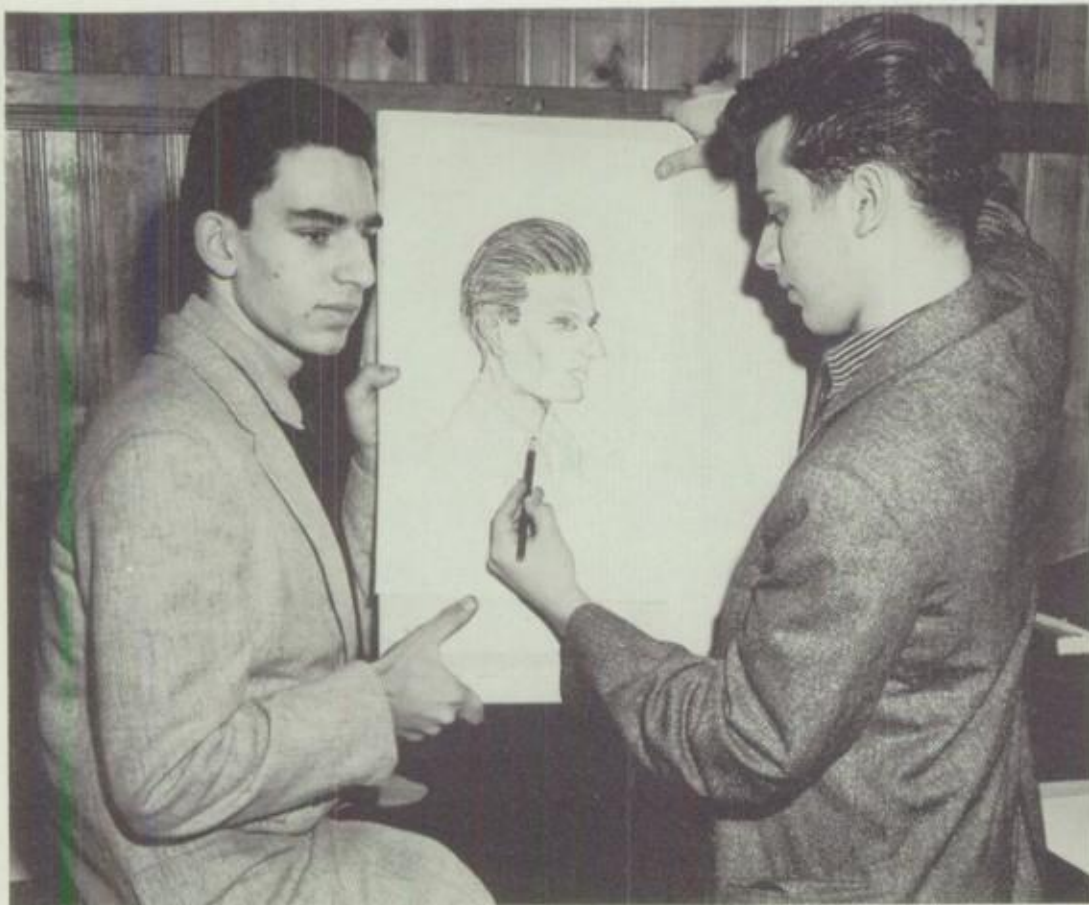

ARTISTRY AS A HOBBY—In addition to their art classes, Centralites have an opportunity to further their interest in art via the Art Club. Assisting Brother Jerome in the direction of the club are Richard Shurtz (treasurer), Dan Zavada (president), and Bill Gallagher (vice-president).

A Perspective Program

NURTURING THEIR ABILITY—As Brother Jerome gives advice to Charles O'Connor, the other art students show a definite desire to develop their talents. Tom Zeske (left) captures his gesture line and Dan Zavada studies the model, while the remaining artists examine their drawings.

MUTUAL AID seems to be the theory here as Richard Shurtz outlines a common error involved in the intricacies of lettering and layout to Dan Zavada and Bill Gallagher. These boys serve in administrative capacities in the Art Club.

PROPONENTS OF MODERN ART—The interpretation of the hidden meaning in this modernistic piece of art occupies the attention of Francis Verri and Ed Schleicher. The activities of the art students range from the study of modern work to the admiration of age-old masterpieces.

HOLD THAT POSE—Oblivious to the camera's eye, Al Venglish maintains his position as J. Cirelli and W. Gallagher shape his likeness on their sketch-pads during an art session. Held daily in the art room, these classes provide the students with an opportunity to cultivate their skills.

Out of this World

SETTING THE CURFEW HOUR, Jane Schilling's chaperon, Mr. Paul Carnahan, laughingly tells Jane and her escort, Jerry Bender, what time the doors will be locked. Jane and Jerry show a touch of amusement as they hear the news, for the anticipated entry in the hours neither night nor day.

"'T WAS THE NIGHT OF THE PROM," and several couples settle at the Dieckhaus' residence before heading for the Georgian Room of the Hotel Webster Hall and the annual Christmas Prom. As the time for departure nears, Alice Dieckhaus (right) listens to the holiday yarn offered by Werner Weinberger, Harry Boal, Earl Brieger, and their dates.

ECONOMY IS NOT the only motive that prompts Ed Albertson to share his coke with his date, Carol Rako, at the "Silhouettes in Snow," semi-formal prom at Christmas time.

"I'LL REMEMBER TONIGHT" seems to be the thought of these Centralites as they dance with their dates to the music of Hal Curtis and his band. An annual affair held during the Christmas vacation, the Prom attracted approximately 200 couples to the Hotel Webster Hall on December 27.

Stepping to

HOLDING COURT, the royal couples chosen at last year's Junior Prom gather on the stage of Pittsburgher Room of the Penn-Sheraton Hotel before going to the dance floor to lead the royal dance. As Mrs. John R. Bender presides in representing the chaperones, the royalty-for-the-night are Jack DeFabio, Bruce Kissell, Tom Sheehan, Jim Prime, Jack Heinz, and Mark Kenny and their dates.

Sine Waves

CANDELABRUM, just a bit short of Liberace's own number, provides the atmosphere as Phil McGuire adds to the extra tone at the home of his date, Sacred Heart's Peggy Dieckhaus. *Hidden behind his Bethel Township date is senior Pat Crimmins, who has permitted only his left arm to meet the audience.

THOMAS SHEEHY
President of Class 6JS

ROBERT D'EPIRO
President of Class 5JS

DISCUSSING POST-PROM STOPS, this group of Centralites and their dates turn "thumbs down" on a place suggested by Emil Bonavita (second from right). Dave Edwards and Bob Genusso stand by waiting to put forth their proposals.

THE GRAND MARCH provided a great part of the fun that was had by all at the Junior Prom. The Prom provided most of the Centralites with their first opportunity to wear formal apparel.

FLASHING SMILES enliven the atmosphere as these groups of juniors (now seniors) try to excel each other during the Mexican hat dance. The promenaders and their dates danced to the music of Tommy Carlyn and his Carlynaires.

BERNARD RAFFERTY
President of Senior Class

INTERMISSION and interruption of a Greenfield-centered conversation at the "Silhouettes in Silver" prom on December 27th features Al Delmontagne, Dan Beyers, Chuck O'Connor, and Ray Cosgrove and their dates. We, too, are wondering what has distracted Ray Cosgrove.

MARTIN O'TOOLE
President of Class 1JC

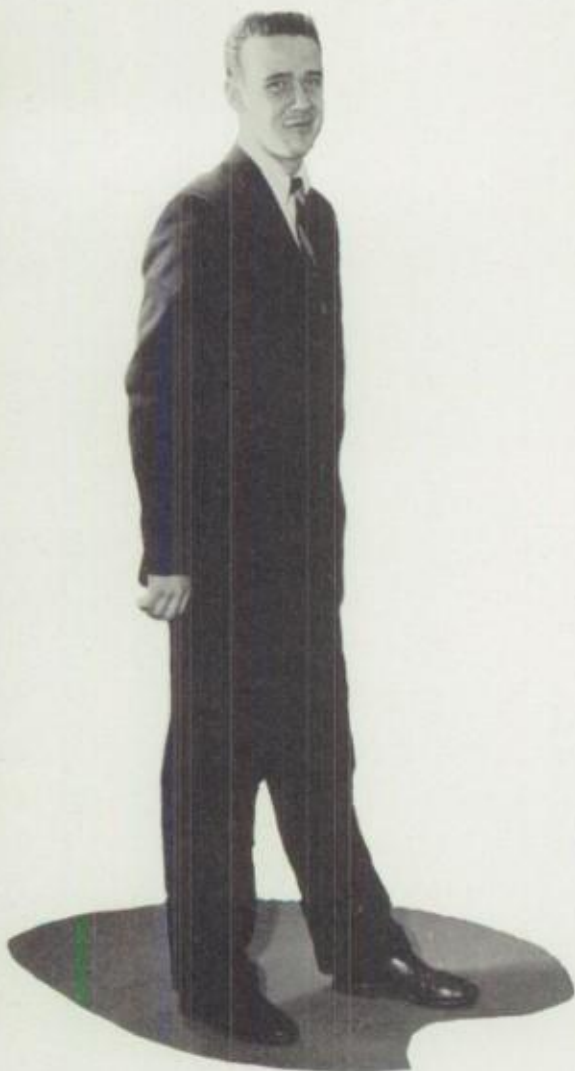

THE PAUSE that refreshes at the Saturday night dance just before Christmas proves successful for Ed Barvick (extreme left), who had been following the photographer that night. More interested in their company than in their picture are Tony DeLuca, Bill Bowers, and Leroy Alden.

DANCE COMMITTEE workers Joe Giovanelli and Dan Zavada, Head of Committee, share the success of their efforts by attending the Saturday night dances themselves. The crowded background helps suggest the popularity of these bi-weekly affairs.

SOPHOMORE STEVE PAULOVITCH proved indifferent to the wintry cold as well as socially precocious when he journeyed from his Hazelwood haven to the Hotel Webster Hall for the Winter Prom. Because of the lack of support by upperclassmen, sophomores helped make the prom a success.

JOHN RUANE
President of Class 2JC

DISAGREEMENT? Probably an early evening timidity, rather than an unexpected quarrel might be the explanation of the seeming distance that John Hall and fellow-Oaklander Pat Corcoran have toward their dates as they approach the entrance to the dance.

CHECKING WITH APPROVAL the program for the Christmas Prom, the dates of George Bedillion and Paul Rouser take an unscheduled intermission in the lobby of the Fifth Avenue Hotel Webster Hall.

RONALD WEHNER
President of Class 3JC

JUNIORS Bill Strellicki and Jim Ireland seem to be veterans at the "small talk" that makes those intermissions between dances memorable. Like many of the promenaders, they awaited the crowning of the King and Queen and then moved to suburban night spots.

EDWARD DROZYNSKI
President of Class 4JC

"BECAUSE OF YOU" echoes the song dedicated to the chaperones at the Christmas Prom, as the generous parents who help make the prom possible chat with visiting Brothers. As Brother Thomas, Student Council Moderator, stands, the group seated are Mr. Frank Landgraff, Brother Theodore, Mr. Dennis Kompare, Brothers Stephen and Lewis, Mr. Stephen Briley, Mrs. Landgraff, Mrs. Briley, and Mrs. Kompare.

PINKERTON MEN efficiently perform the task of checking all coming into the Pittsburgh Room of the Hotel Penn-Sheraton as junior (now senior) Bob Palumbo and his date pass with no questions.

CHECKING COATS and wraps at the Webster Hall Check Room, adjacent to the Georgian Room, Joe DiFrancesco hesitates over the question of whether the tip to the hat-check should be made before the prom.

TONY, photographer from Hill's Studio, checks his pocket for change as couples sign up for pictures at the Christmas Prom. Either blinded by the camera's flash or grinning at prospect of parting with five dollars is junior Wayne Kompare.

KNOW-HOW and courtesy seem to come without effort to the prominent men who, led by Frank Piontek, check their coats at the lobby check room.

"MT. NAZARETH ACADEMY, and we're wondering why we aren't regularly on your VIKING mailing list," readily responded these girls when questioned at the Christmas Prom. Admiring their dates' poise are Tom Zeske and Rich Brandenstein.

NOT MASTERS OF ALL THEY SURVEY
 from this point, the executive branch of our student governing body do control much of the activity back at school. Selected by popular election more than a year ago, these four seniors have been responsible for many of the more enjoyable parts of school life. Secretary Dan Zavada, President Bernard Rafferty, Vice-President Bruce Kissell, and Treasurer Lou Vitti pose here after their first month of successful supervising.

THE OLD CLOCK ON THE WALL shows that it is just about time to terminate another Saturday night dance. As Bill Hillgrove carefully puts away a record by the idol of all teenagers, Henry Fialla announces the last dance and Tom Carney begins to clean off the desk in the Disc Jockey Booth.

IT'S A HOLD UP! As four of the more faithful members of the Dance Committee lift half of the banner which adorns the wall at most of the dances. Charles O'Connor, Pat Crimmins, Joe Emmerich, and Dan Zavada wait for Brother Thomas to bring a wire so that they may rest their weary limbs.

THE TURKEY TROT was highlighted by the large painting of the traditional Thanksgiving fowl by Dan Zavada. Under Dan's masterpiece, in the upper section of the picture off center to the left, one can see a portion of the more than 453 people who crowded into the gym for the November Hop.

FIRST ORDER OF BUSINESS for the newly elected Sophomore Class Presidents was the gathering for this official photograph. While early comers W. Sproule, 1S; C. Flecker, 3S; M. Taylor, 5S; and J. Baker, 6S, managed to get seats, G. DaVia, 7S; E. Villella, 2S; S. Grenesko, J. Hughes, 10S; K. Morris, 4S, and P. Julian, 9S, found they must be contented to stand around their contemporaries.

BEHIND THIS BEAUTIFULLY GIFT-WRAPPED DOOR, lies the school's most decorated room. Top honors in the school, as well as the Freshman Department, went to 10F, which featured a huge tree, a fireplace with a real fire, and brick lined walls. While Brother Claude supervises, Charles Papale puts the finishing touches on the wide red bow, donated by the Mother's Guild.

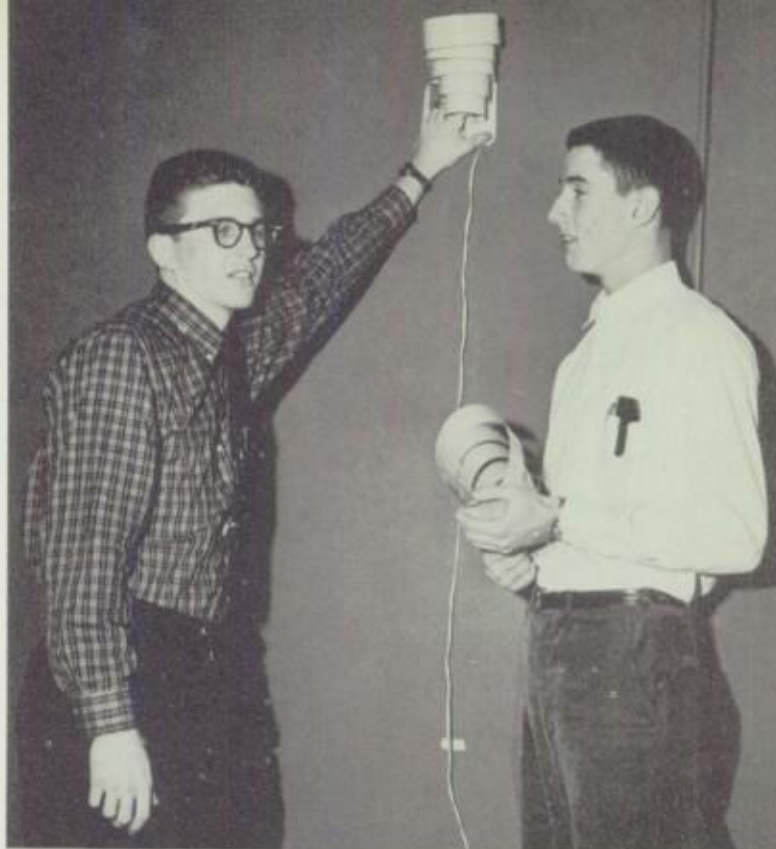

Voice our Choices

SLEEPY-EYED BUT INDUSTRIOUS, Frank Landgraff asks Jim Diskin's opinion on the position of one of the 25-watt lamps for the bi-weekly Saturday night dances. Whether Frank is holding up the lamp or depending on the wall for his own stability, seems to amuse Jim.

WAITING FOR BROTHER MARTIN in the new Faculty Lounge, the members of the combined College Night and Career Day Committee gather around the lamp for the photographer. While P. Simcic, P. Benec, R. Cosgrove, and F. Landgraff sit in the front, L. Walsh, P. McGuire, and D. Deasy stand behind.

TYPICAL OF THE WORK DONE ON THE AVERAGE SATURDAY AFTERNOON, is the sweeping of the floor after the decorating. Despite the efforts of the four Dance Committee members pictured on this page, the gym somehow gets decorated for each dance—usually by about 6:30 p.m.

SHORTLY AFTER GETTING THEIR FIRST TASTE OF C.D.C.H.S., these freshmen were given a vote of confidence by their classmates and chosen to represent their respective classes. Seated around the long table are R. Bogucki, 1F; T. Crimmins, 10F; W. Narr, 9F; and M. Ford, 11F. Behind them stand J. Vroble, 5F; M. Jakub, 6F; R. Harring, 8F; T. Boehme, 12F; R. Owens, 2F; and E. Dymerski, 3F.

CHIEF ENGINEERS of the Model Railroad Club conduct one of the developmental meetings. Jim Young (vice-president), John Tunney (president), and Bob Shontz (secretary-treasurer) are the students instrumental in the formation and governing of this club. Adding to Central's long list of extra-curriculum activities, this organization provides an outlet for students interested in one of America's favorite hobbies.

RENOVATORS OF THE CAMERA CLUB'S NEWEST QUARTERS gather to examine one of the organization's projects. J. Bender, R. Reith, E. Miller, and J. Tunney seem engrossed in an early Central class pictorial. Having moved to the office off the auditorium beneath the Student Council room, the Camera Club's rooms were repainted and restyled by these individuals.

EXAMINING THE ENLARGER in the Camera Club's quarters are the 1957-58 officers, J. Bender (president), R. Lewandowski (vice-president), E. Miller (secretary), and G. McNamara (treasurer). One of the many self-supporting activities, the Camera Club buys all of its equipment through dues collected from the membership.

PROVIDING ITS CREDENTIALS as being the largest activity in Central with factual proof, the Camera Club gathers on the center staircase. The members—Front row: D. Gardner, E. Accetulla, J. THIS HAIR-RAISING EXPERIMENT with static electricity shows that it attracts Centralites as well as electrons. Mr. Herman Porco gives the demonstration to seniors A. Zangrilli, M. McSorley, C. Rutter, Harris, W. Jennings, D. Evers, and B. Connor, who are gathered around the dummy in the lobby of the Buhl Planetarium.

Operation Globe:

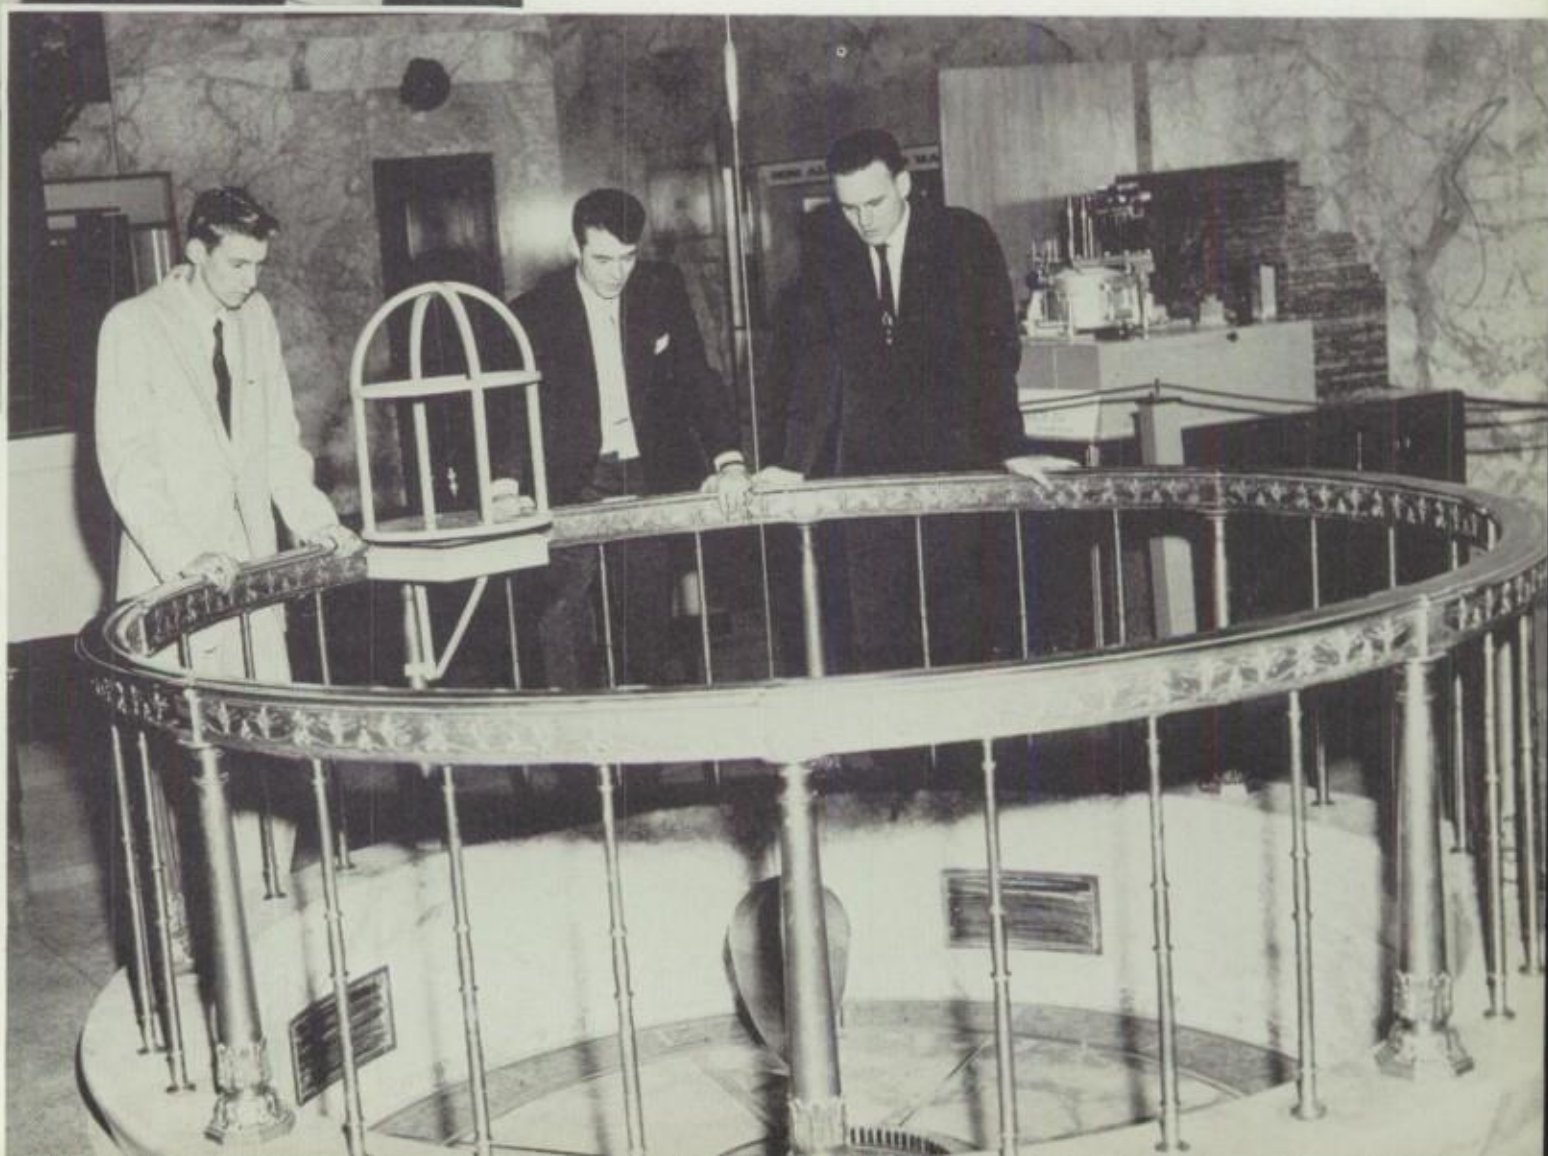

History's greatest science
research project...

TWINKLE, TWINKLE, LITTLE STAR; Al Zangrilli wonders where you are. In preparation for his physics term paper, Al inspects the North Side sky, hoping that he may find some constellation which he can identify.

TYPICAL CENTRALITES, these five boys don't believe in signs and so they try their luck at the unbeatable Tick-Tack-Toe Game at the Buhl Planetarium, North Side. As Dave Evers explains the strategy to Al Zangrilli, Bill Jennings, and Mike McSorley, John Harris turns to the telephone.

THE PIT AND THE PENDULUM hold the interest of these three seniors. Senior Charles Ritter (right) explains that the rotation of the earth causes the ground to make one revolution a day, while the plumb line moves in a straight line, knocking over the pegs in the pendulum with the accuracy of the finest of clocks. Seniors John Harris and William Jennings look on during a yearbook field trip.

AND THE BAND PLAYS ON in the wee hours of the school morning while the regular student body hardly have begun the daily battle of the books. At a daily practice in the band room are J. Houser, R. Burgoon, J. O'Connor, W. Beck, H. Galliot, J. Santorilla.

CLARINET ROW in the nearly eighty piece up-and-coming Central band includes W. Logan, J. Olah, R. Burgoon, J. Rettinger, and R. Brandenstein.

BROTHER TO THE CLARINET, the saxophone, forms the means display of talent for Henry Galliot and John Santorilla, two sophomores who aspire to represent Central when the well-practiced and much-anticipated New Form and New Look of the school band make their initial debut.

Applying Sound Waves

THE BLUE KNIGHTS, the popular music organ of the school, appear as the Central answer to the teenage dance band. Officially organized and directed by the students themselves, the Blue Knights represents one of the most self-propelled of the school organizations. In the Band Room headquarters here are first row: R. Soltesz, B. Miller, B. Brandenstein, J. Vroble, R. Burgoon, F. Mantick, S. Barker; second row: J. Hugnagel, E. Becker, C. Ricchuitio, J. Myler, E. Albertson.

DOCTOR JOSEPH RAUTERKUS, long a tried and found sound director of the Central Catholic orchestra, represents a fine tradition of superior work in the school music department. Besides presiding over the school orchestra, especially in the major endeavor of the year, the operetta, Dr. Rauterkus instructs at St. Vincent College and at the Diocesan Adult Education classes. Here sophomore Peter Murphy whines at the sound he himself produces in his practice duet of a medley from "My Fair Lady."

THE BASS VIOL, the treble instrument in the really large, economy size, appropriately forms the instrument of expression for sophomore Warren Kennedy and junior Ernest Grindle.

Vibrating Personalities

"UNDER NEW Management" might well be the theme of the Central Music Department for this year. Part of the all-out effort to improve the school music department includes individual instruction to all potential band members. Here Mr. F. Zych, formerly an instructor to McKeesport High School's nationally acclaimed band, gives the beat as freshman Roscoe Woods trills the trombone.

MUSIC COORDINATOR, Mr. Edward Shiner, leads the nucleus of the newly revamped band in the school Band Room. An instructor at Duquesne University, St. Vincent College, and Seton Hall College, Mr. Shiner has joined Mr. Zych as director of the reorganized music department.

BEHIND THE SCENES work with almost daily regularity has marked the efforts of the Central band throughout the year. In its efforts to re-appear only after having become thoroughly prepped to meet the top-notch musical competition of the area, the band has officially been in hibernation throughout the year. Regular practices for the official appearance of the newly formed group have included this formidable first line: A. Froncaglia, J. Gaughan, C. Knight, J. Houser, R. Burgoon, J. O'Connor, W. Beck, H. Galliot, J. Santorilla, B. Brandenstein.

ASSEMBLIES REQUIRE backstage preparation that many a student never would dream of. Correct placement of the rostrum may mean the difference between success or failure for a speaker, and in the act of manipulating the rostrum so that the microphones are at the correct distance are regular stage hands Bernard McHugh and Harry Boal.

UNDERCLASS MEN, showing signs of wear after an afternoon session with the props and backdrops for this year's production, Brigadoon, peer from behind the natural netting effect that the curtain ropes provide. Left to right are George Gallagher, Tom Olszewski, and Lawrence Kreke.

UP, UP AND AWAY goes assistant stage hand Bob Dorsner as he checks equipment backstage for this year's production, Brigadoon. On the lower level, but actually well above local sea level, stage manager Jim Young obligingly pauses amid his rope work.

Our Wide,

"GETTING TO KNOW YOU" sings the English schoolteacher Anna as she demonstrates her feeling towards her Oriental pupils. Hired by the King of Siam to instruct his many children, Anna encounters many problems in adjusting to the Eastern way of life.

EXTREMES OF CIVILIZATION—As Anna (Judy Knaiz) converses with the formally-attired Sir Edmund Ramsey (Tony Godino), an English ambassador, the barefooted king (Mike Carey) looks on enviously. Under the direction of Brother G. Theodore, the staging of the "King and I" rates among Central's outstanding operettas.

Wide World: SIAM SCENES

TORN BETWEEN DESIRE AND REASON, Anna (Barbara Staudt) ponders the consequences of accepting Lady Tiang's plea to come and console the dying king. In Rodgers and Hammerstein's production of the "King and I," Anna's opinion of the Eastern world changes from one of criticism to an admiration of its finer points.

FATHERLY ADORATION is expressed by Parris Westbrook, portraying one of the sons in the "King and I," as he prostrates himself before his father, the king, as played by Frank Klingensmith. The scene takes place when the king's family is presented to Anna upon her arrival at the palace.

DYING A KINGLY DEATH, Frank Klingensmith abolishes the evils of Siam's obsequious bowing system before he expires. Gathered round him in mourning, the king's court and Anna display their emotions as they join in the singing of the show's finale, "Something Wonderful."

"GREAT BIG IDOL WITH THE GOLDEN HEAD?" No, just a play within an operetta in last year's production of the Central Drama Department. This particular scene portrays the Siamese version of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The gruesome looking gentleman is Charles Jessen.

Girls for Central plays represent St. Paul's Cathedral, Sacred Heart, St. Rosalia, Elizabeth Seton, St. Augustine, and St. Raphael.

COVERING the body of Harry Beaton (Wayne Kompare), Elaine Nedlick weeps as she leads the mourners in one of the climactic scenes from "Brigadoon." Left to right are: T. Corbett, J. Bender, S. SUMMARIZING the legend of Brigadoon, Mr. Lundie (Anthony Reda) emphasizes his words with a sword as Nora Jean Lydon, Bob D'Epiro, and Bruce Kissell fall to the enchantment of the captivating legend.

Bruce Kissell, Judy Knaiz (Jeff Douglas, Meg Brockie).

MR. LUNDIE, relating the legend of Brigadoon's origin and fate to Tommy, Jeff, and Fiona, captures complete attention of his willing audience. Listening to the fantasy are Barbara Staudt, Paul Fuhrer, and Earl Briger, Jr.

THE SWORD DANCE, a sacred and serious performance of Scottish ritual, is performed with becoming majesty by Barry Onufer, Wayne Kompare, and Werner Weinberger. Symbolic of Harry Beaton's rejection in love, the dance leads to one of the climaxes in the top musical, "Brigadoon."

ATHLETES . . .

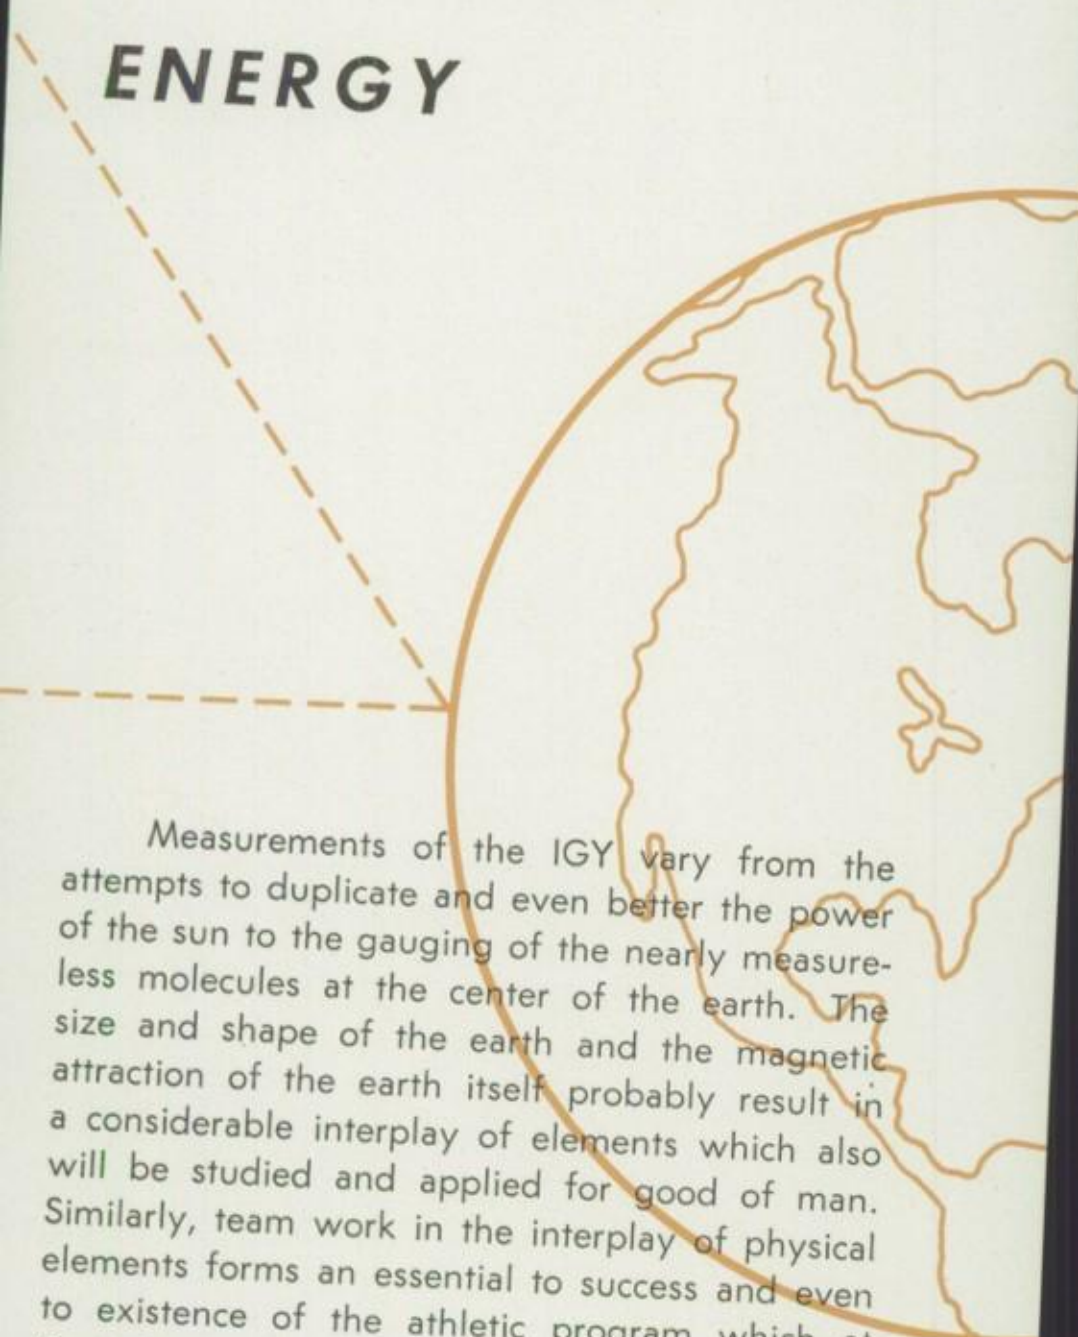

SUPER PERFORMANCE WITH EARTH

While the twentieth century scientists explore and measure the earth, in a lesser sense the Athletic Department measures the feats and accomplishments of some of her inhabitants. Though the Geophysical Year may add more and more to the records of man's endeavors, the earth itself and all that is yet to be discovered about it already has been here for many "suns." On the other hand, there is practically no limit to what one human, with the grace of God, can eventually do. And so in athletics, as with other phases of school life, we may not always be on the top, but we are consoled by knowing we have done what is expected by God.

The third and final area of exploration of the International Geophysical Year is the study of the earth itself. Measurements of the earth, in particular, characterize this phase of the IGY. In our own world at Central Catholic, comparable physical measurements become part and parcel of each boy's life through the stresses and strains that mark the athletic program. The athletic program is, after all, a gauge of pressure, of power, of stress and strain in terms not of theoretical molecular energy but of competition among teams and among individuals. This measurement of energy, then, is mirrored in the school program of athletics.

. . . IN A
ENERGY

Measurements of the IGY vary from the attempts to duplicate and even better the power of the sun to the gauging of the nearly measureless molecules at the center of the earth. The size and shape of the earth and the magnetic attraction of the earth itself probably result in a considerable interplay of elements which also will be studied and applied for good of man. Similarly, team work in the interplay of physical elements forms an essential to success and even to existence of the athletic program which at Central varies from football, basketball, baseball, track, cross country, tennis, swimming, bowling, marksmanship, fishing, and intramural competition. Like the work of the scientist, the program of the school is to measure the inclinations and abilities of all.

VICTORIOUS VIKINGS and their coaches leave the field after Central's 6-0 upset of the Duquesne Dukes. In this encounter, Duquesne suffered its first opening game loss in 28 years, and also saw its five year victory skein over the Vikings end.

CENTRAL'S OUTSTANDING GUARD, John Watson, hits the tackling dummy during a daily practice session. Nominated as the team's most valuable player by Coach Val Jansante, John won three varsity letters in football, and, in his senior year, his teammates elected him co-captain.

OFF TO THE RACES—Halfback Ray Cosgrove turns the corner and heads downfield on the first scrimmage play against Duquesne. Cosgrove's run placed the ball on the Dukes' twenty yard line. Five plays later, Central crossed the goal line for the game's only score.

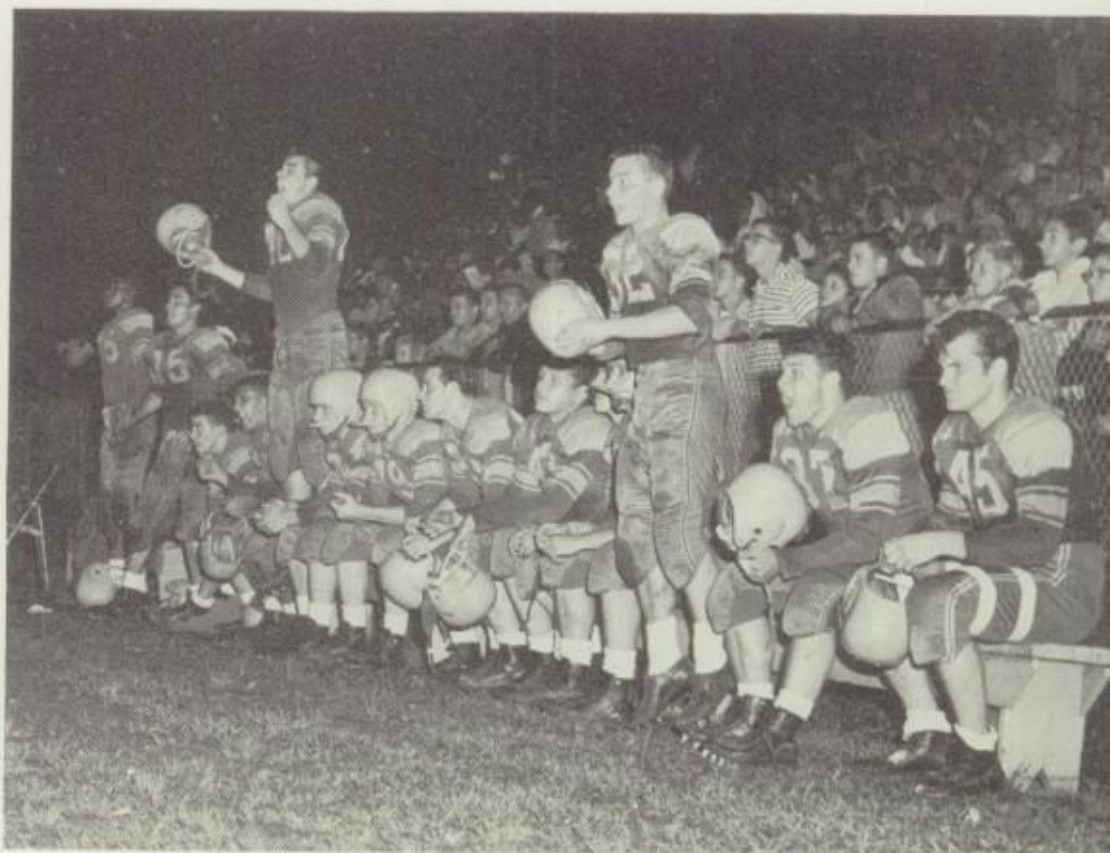

LUNGING ACROSS THE GOAL, Dennis Trosky moves across the final stripe behind the effective blocking of Bernie Rafferty. Trosky's quarterback "keeps" played a decisive role in this 13-7 victory over Har-Brack, as he consistently moved for good yardage behind the Central line.

Their Forces Act on Real Bodies

UP AND OVER—Tackled by a Scott Township gridder, Joe Sundy fights for extra yardage as two more Golden Bears close in for the kill. Despite the best efforts of the Vikings, Scott Township scored early in the game and held on for a 7-0 win.

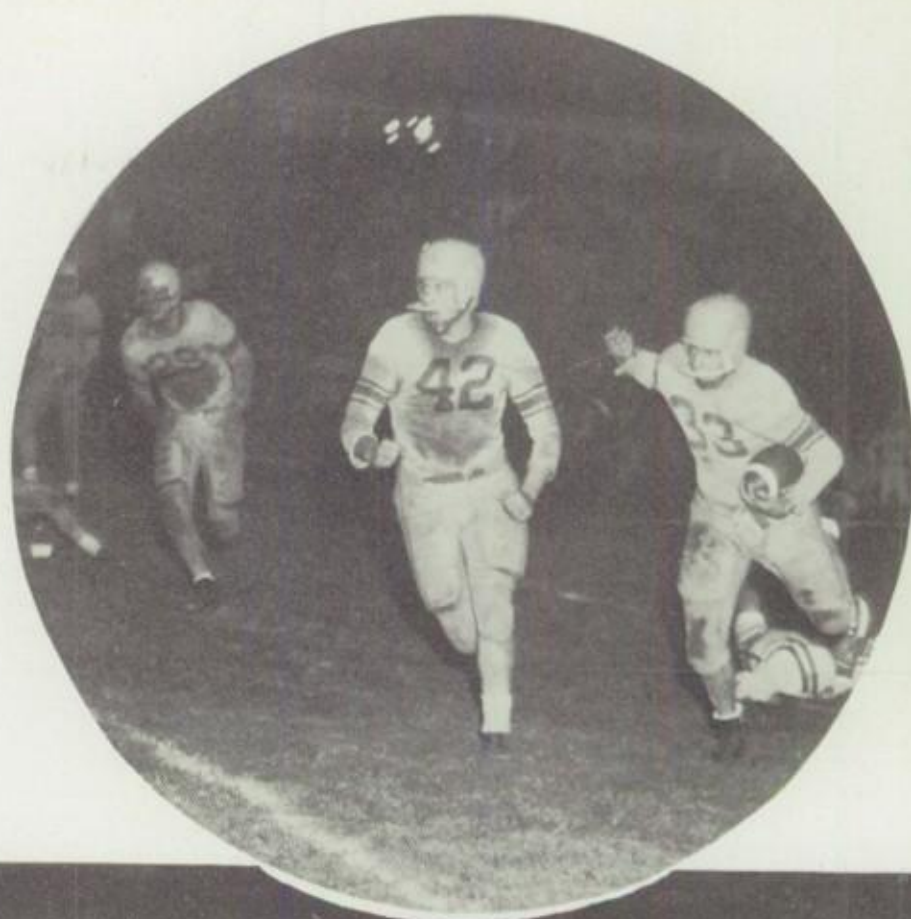

A CRUCIAL PLAY in the opening game with Duquesne brings members of the team to their feet. In staging one of the biggest upsets in Central gridiron history, the Vikings displayed a team spirit and a will-to-win that was unbeatable.

DOWNED BY A HOST of Central tacklers, an unidentified North ball-carrier waits patiently for the Vikings to unpile. Playing before 5,000 fans at South Stadium, Central saw a 7-6 halftime lead erased by five North Catholic scoring drives and lost, 39-7.

AS DENTEL LEADS THE WAY around end, Bob D'Epiro goes for more valuable yardage in the Har-Brack game. In winning, 13-7, the Viking ground attack rolled up 217 yards with D'Epiro contributing the most to the season's highest total.

AMID A SEA OF MUD, a Trojan pleads for help to the referee against a supposed rule infraction. North broke the game wide open in the second half by scoring 33 points after Central players went to the dressing room at halftime with a 7-6 lead.

JUST BEYOND THE REACH of Ray Cosgrove sails the ball as a Tiger defender stands helplessly by. However, the Vikings won this game, 13-7, via their staunch defense and a relentless rushing attack.

"SO CLOSE AND YET SO FAR AWAY." Ray Cosgrove leaves his feet in a vain attempt to snatch a Trosky aerial before it falls incomplete. The Vikings experienced several such close misses while bowing to Scott Township, 7-0.

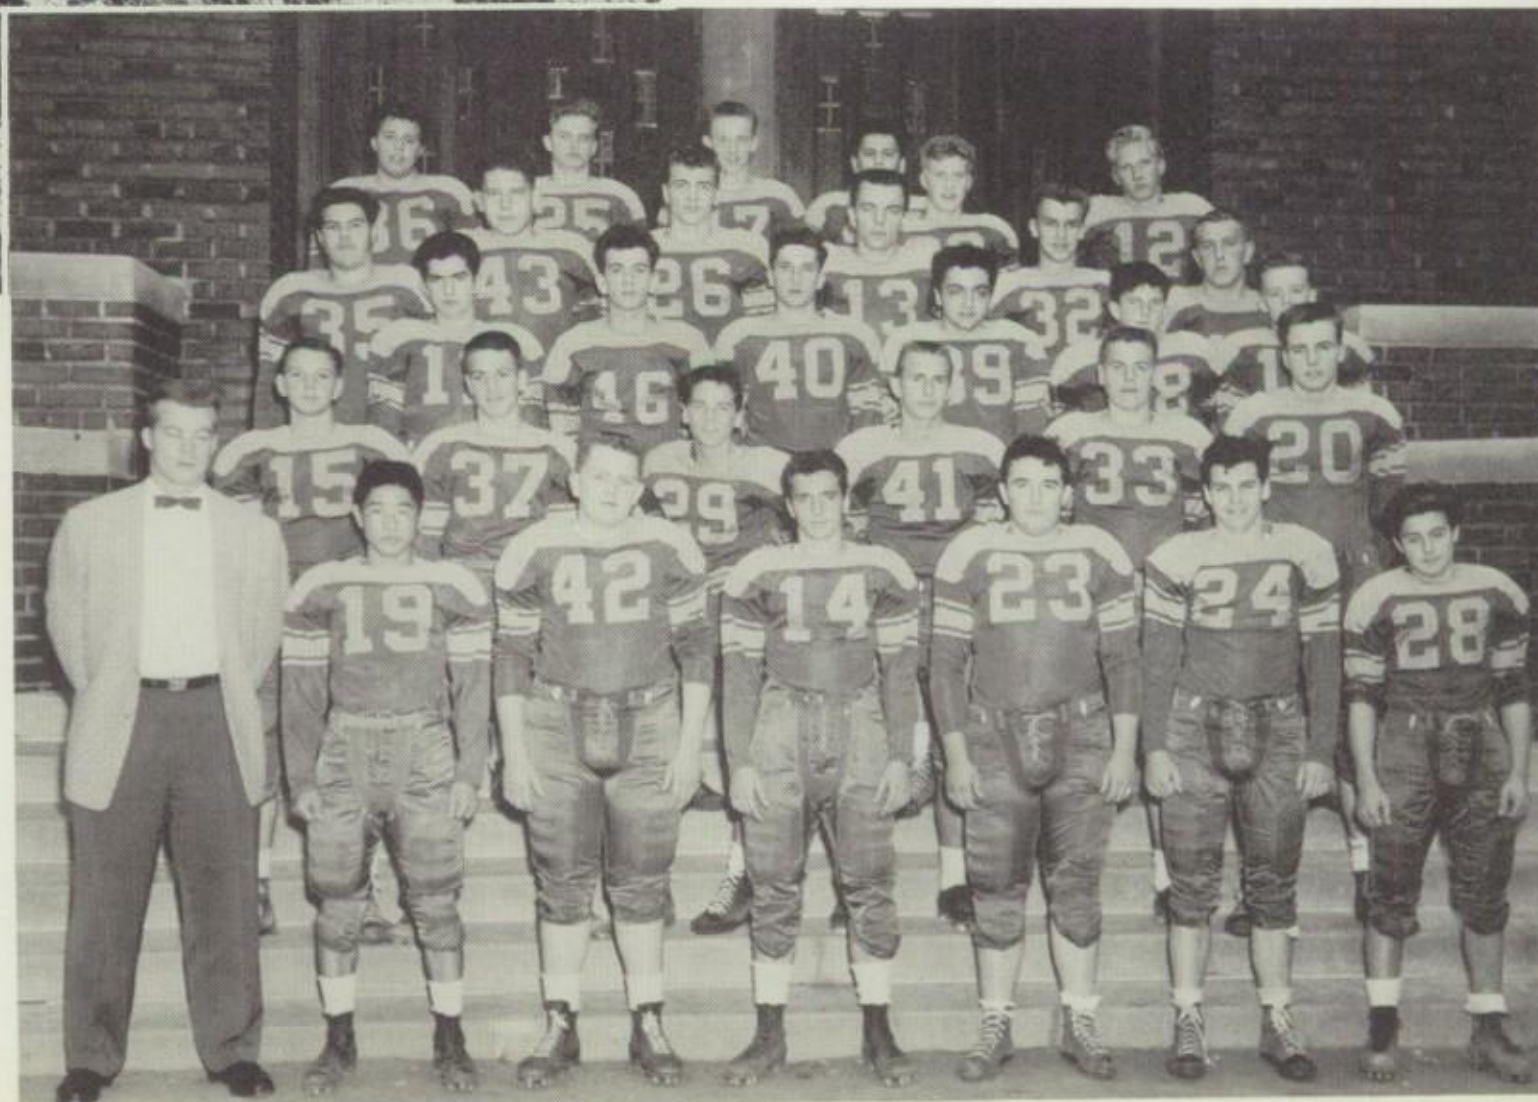

VIKING BOOTY—Fired-up Centralites display a megaphone captured during a halftime skirmish with North cheerleaders. The mid-game cheers gave way to groans as the Trojans pushed across five touchdowns in the third and fourth periods.

THE FOOTBALL MANAGERS—Harry Boal, Pete Dimperio, and Kieran Walsh gave unstintingly of their time and efforts to help this year's team. Their care of the equipment and handling of various other chores proved an aid to both the coaches and the players.

Changing Matter into Energy

APOGEE OF THE SEASON—Bob Brennan accepts a jump pass from four yards out to even the North score at 6-6. Seconds later, Dennis Trosky, who threw the pass, added the extra point to give Central a short-lived lead at the intermission.

DIVING ACROSS THE FINAL STRIPE, Central end Bob Brennan scores Central's only touchdown in the traditional North-Central tilt. After holding the heavily-favored Trojans at the half, Central saw the game turn into a rout as the men of Troy scored every time they handled the ball in the second half to merit a 39-7 triumph.

RESEMBLING SOMETHING we might expect to see stepping out of Sputnik, Den Trosky confers with coaches Franny Collins and Val Jansante concerning strategy for the second quarter of the Scott Township game.

GLEEFUL GRIDDERS—The Central squad crowds the sidelines to yell encouragement to their teammates as they prepare for the opening kick-off against the Golden Bears of Scott Township. This year's team posted a 2-5-1 record, the best since Central's unbeaten team of 1951.

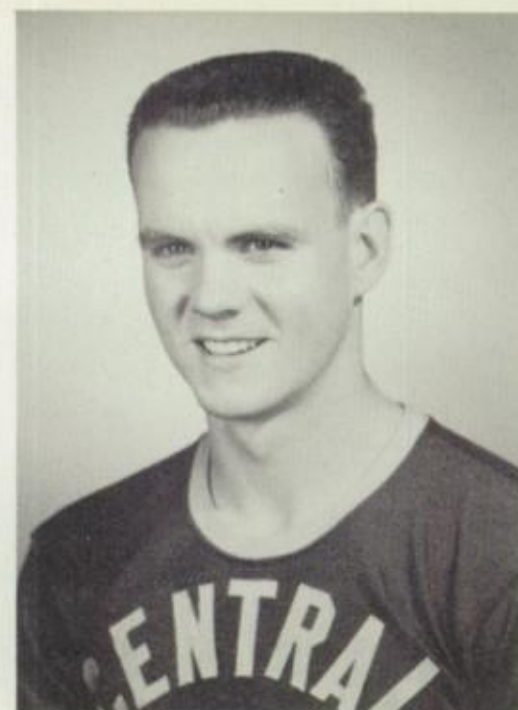

Shooting Solid Spheres

STARTING THE SEASON RIGHT, Paul Benec pushes the opening tip-off of the West Catholic game towards Bob Gordon. After dropping this game to the Burrs, 64-52, Central went on to post a 20-5 season record.

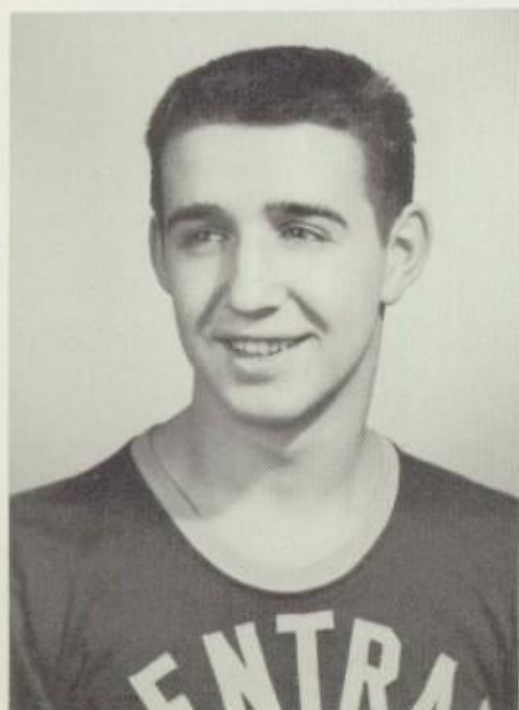

DETERMINATION MARKS THE FACES of these Vikings as they go through their warm-up prior to the first game with North. After winning handily in this game, 70-54, Central fell before an inspired band of Trojans, 82-51, to necessitate a play-off game for the Catholic Class "A" title.

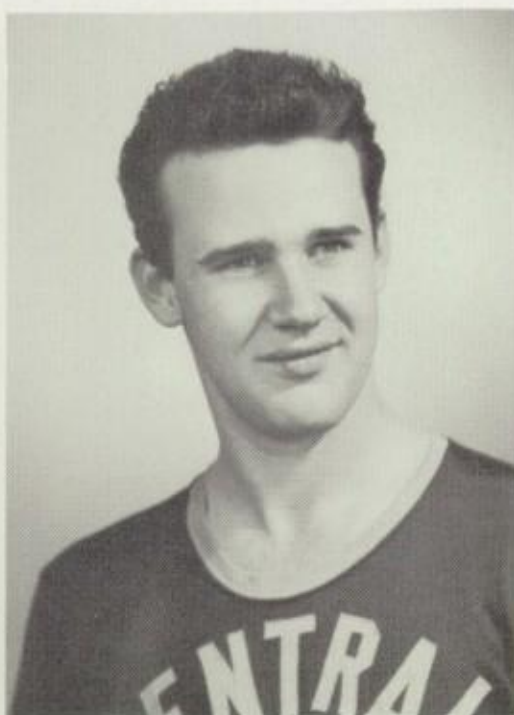

HAVING TROUBLE with two Trojans from North, Bob Gordon prepares to pass-off after clearing the boards. As North's Matt Szykowny (partly hidden) and John Cegalis (25) ineffectively try for the ball, Chuck Rutter stands by with a clenched fist.

SENIOR STANDOUTS, Paul Benec (with ball) and Bob Gordon, display a factor most important in registering a highly-successful season—domination of the backboards. In this game with Madonna High of Weirton, West Virginia, the Vikings coasted to a 61-42 triumph.

DROPPING IN TWO POINTS for the Viking cause, junior John Mitchell leaves his feet as he evades the desperate attempt of Trojan Shutterly to block the shot. Central surprised the men from Troy Hill by winning, 70-54, thus gaining a "one-up" advantage in the annual struggle for the Pittsburgh Catholic Class "A" crown.

Drop in

HANDY MANEUVER as applied by Paul Benec stymies an attempt for a two-pointer by the North Trojan's Dick Turici in the second encounter with the across-the-river rivals. Unfortunately, such actions were not frequently performed by the Vikings that evening as they dropped the contest, 82-51.

PATTY-CAKE is not the object of this bit of action on the part of Central's Paul Benec and North's Cegalis, but rather the opening of the annual rivalry between the two squads. The Centralites proved victorious, 70-54, in this, the first of two encounters for the teams.

PURLOINING ATTEMPT on the part of Central's Dink Larkin finds him fouling his West Catholic opponent in the opening game of the 1957-58 campaign. The contest provided one of the few losses to mar the outstanding record of the Vikings this season, as the Burrs triumphed, 64-52.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE finds Central's Paul Benec again getting the opening tap against his Trojan opponents as the Vikings attempted to polish off the Northmen and retain their championship crown. Such was not the case, however, as the tables were turned on them, 82-51, and a play-off forced.

"DON'T GET HURT, BOB!" appears to be the plea of all concerned in the Central-North encounter as the Vikings' outstanding rebounder, Bob Gordon, thwarts the attack from the seemingly harmless ball. Other Centralites in the picture include Dink Larkin and Paul Benec.

ALL EYES UP in search of the missing basketball is the situation in the contest between the Central junior varsity and their opponents, Madonna of Weirton. Dominating the under-the-basket scene are three Centralites, Larry Orzechowski, Al Mielcuszny, and Sam McDowall.

THE BIG STRETCH for an errant rebound finds Central's Jim Catello grabbing the ball from his Madonna rival. Also battling for the Jayvee squad are Sam McDowell (10) and Al Mielcuszny (11).

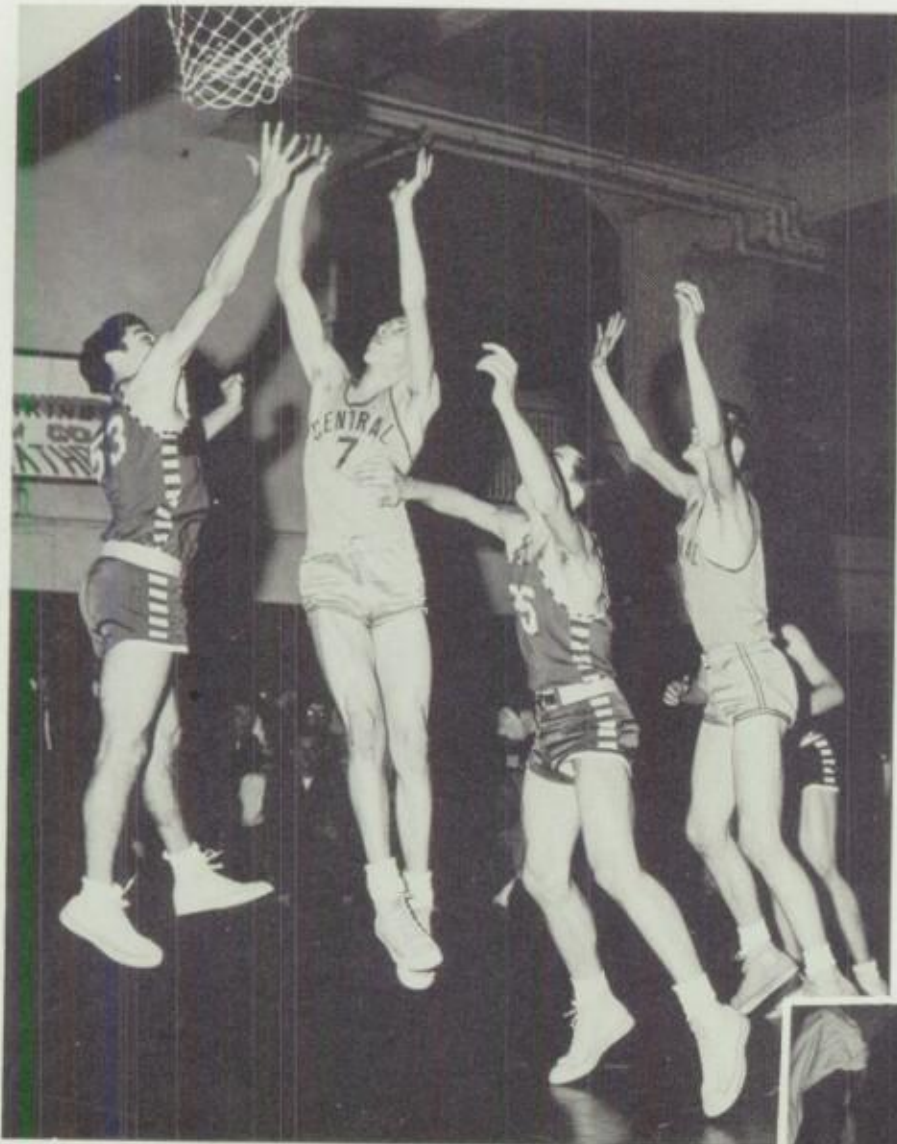

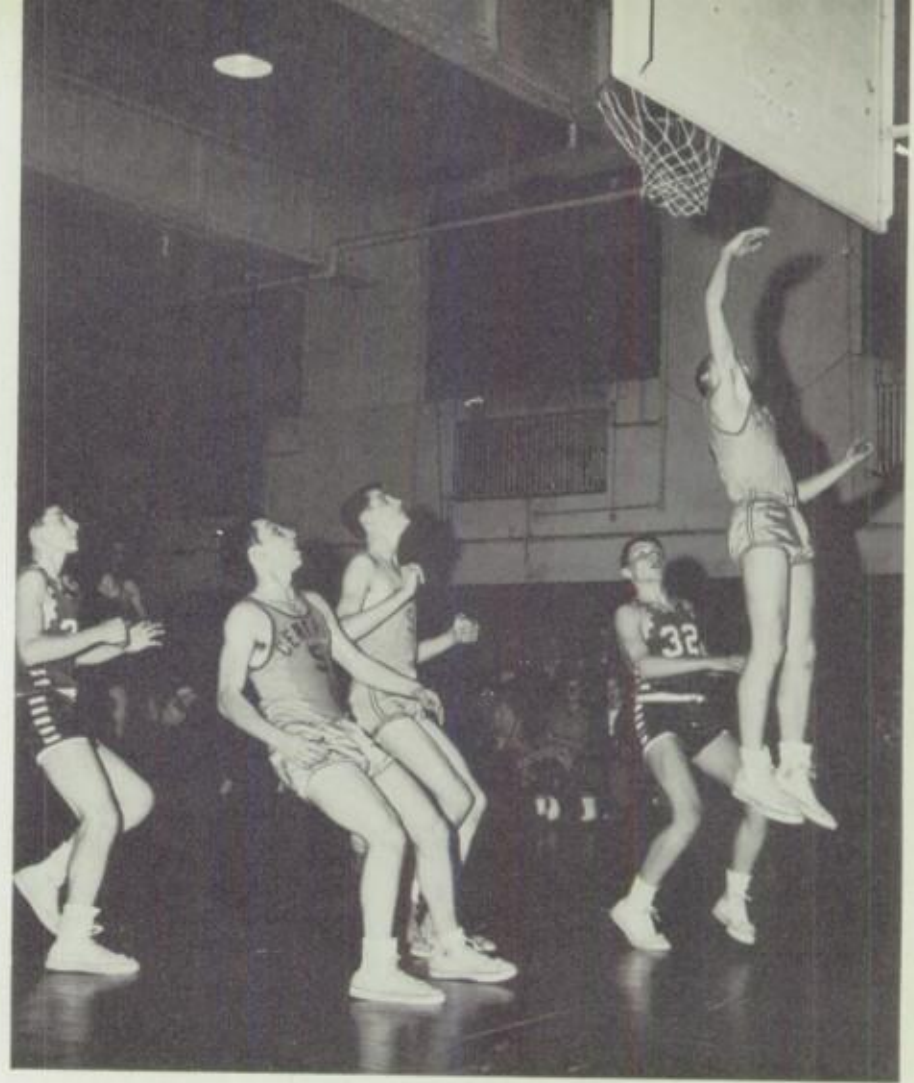

FLYING ELBOWS characterize the scene under the Viking backboard during the annual encounter between the JVs and North. The little Vikings were successful in both of their encounters with the Trojans as they defeated their rivals, 59-38 and 31-29.

LAY-UP SHOT by Bob Sable provides the Vikings with two points in contributing to the 59-38 rout of the North Trojans on the Central home floor. Moving in for a rebound in the event the shot should go array are Fran Caricato and John Conte with two unidentified North players.

FOUR MINIATURE SUPERMEN make an attempt at flying to meet the ball in the Central-North jayvee contest. The Centralites were successful in this, the first of their games with the Trojans by the score of 59-38, as Tom O'Rielly (7) and John Conte (5) scored 19 and 15 points, respectively.

Momentum of the Moment

BEGINNING ONE OF THEIR DAILY TREKS, this group of varsity cross country runners seems unperturbed by the two-and-a-quarter miles they will cover. They are J. Ryan, J. Fermanis, A. Zangrilli, C. Mangieri, T. Sheehan, M. McAndrews, R. Friel, and J. Burns.

ADMIRING THE BOOTY available to entrees in the 1957 Central Catholic Invitational Meet, Brother Raymond (left) discusses the possible results with Brother John. Nearby Centralites wonder how many trophies the Vikings can bring home with them.

THE DAILY GRIND of conditioning exercises is performed with vigor by the members of the cross country squad in anticipation of an upcoming meet. These daily exercises contributed heavily to the success of the squad.

Continuous

DISCUSSING STRATEGY for an impending meet, this group of seniors and their coach seem confident that the Central string of fifty-five victories will not end. M. McAndrews and Brother Flamin Emery hold a result sheet, while D. Adams, R. Penny, A. Zangrilli, and T. Sheehan calculate their chances.

WINNING WAYS CONTINUED — Members of the Central team again spread-eagle the field in a dual meet. While running their dual-meet string to fifty-five consecutive victories, the squad registered eight wins via the shut-out route.

DOWN THE HOMESTRETCH—Half-miler John Fermanis "opens-up" the throttle for the final seventy-five yards. Hoping to pick up additional points for the Vikings, John anticipates lowering his time of 2:06.

CARRYING OUT THE TRADITION of invoking the aid of "Our Lady of Victories," the Central Catholic cross country teams pause for a moment of prayer before an important dual meet.

Change of Place

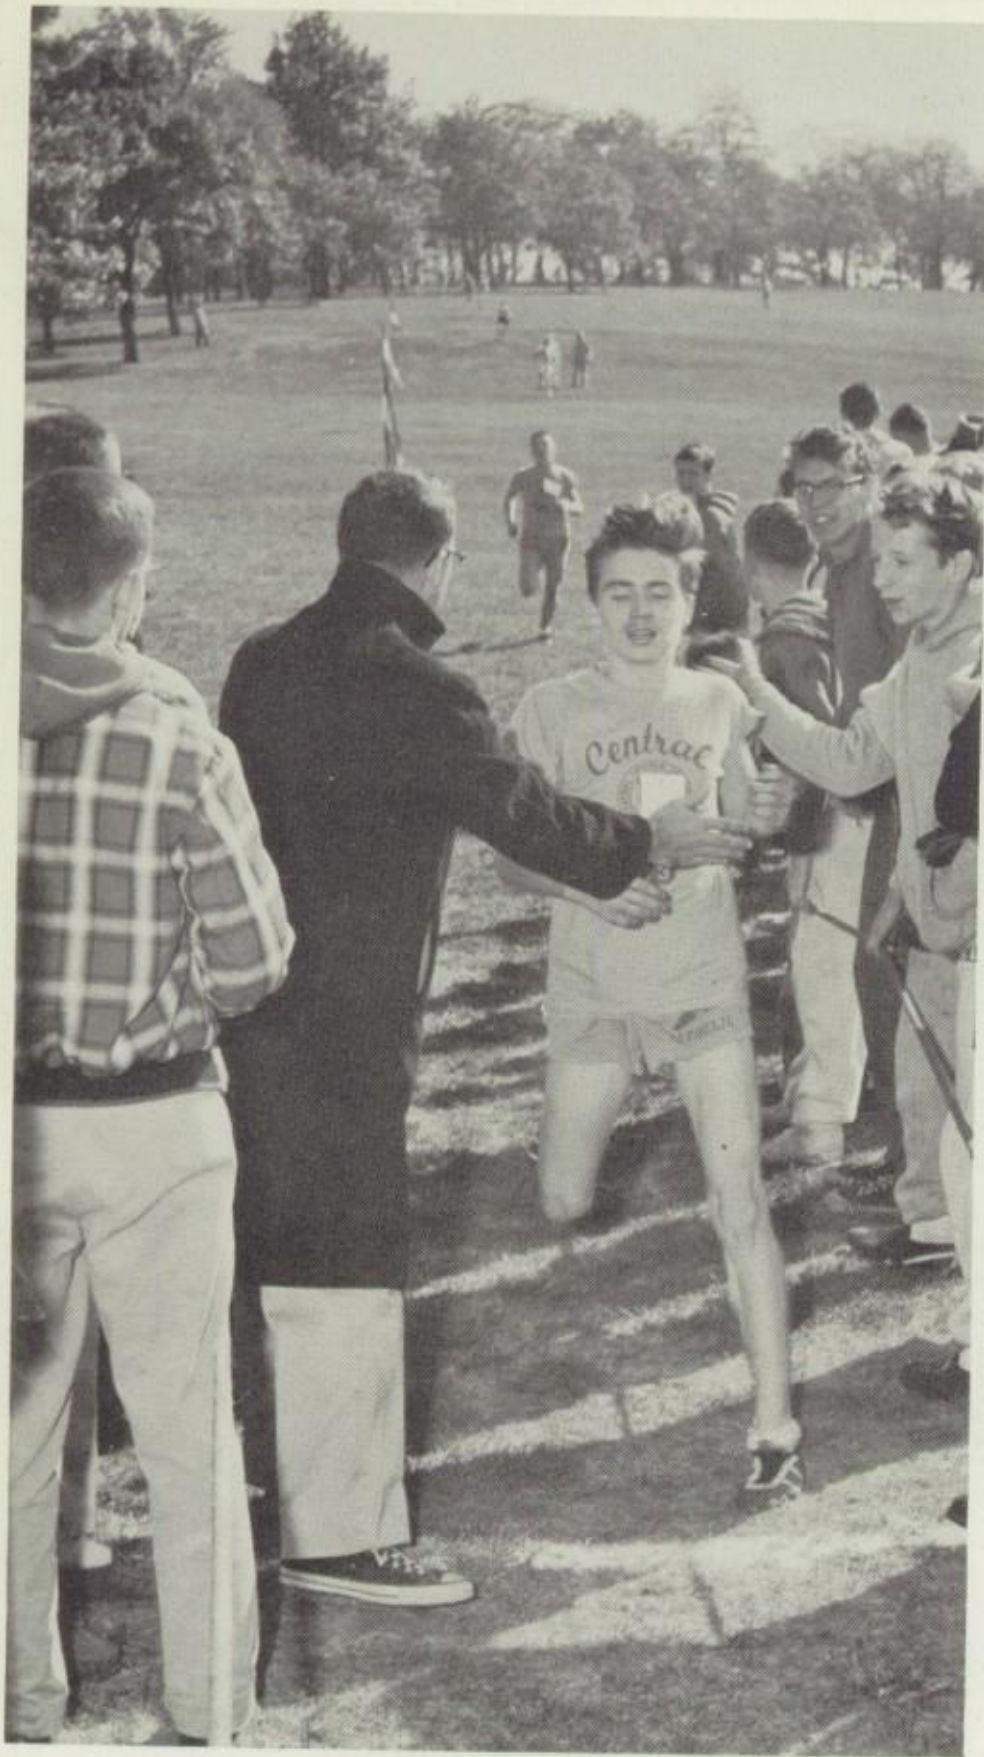

UTTER EXHAUSTION marks the effort put forth by these Viking thinclads as they strain for the final flag in the big meet of the season with Mt. Lebanon. The two competitors pictured here are Mel McAndrews and Pat Coyne.

ON THE VERGE OF COLLAPSE, senior runner Pat Coyne lunges frantically toward the finish line ahead of the entire field of runners. This was a double victory for Pat as he paced the team to a victory in the Invitational, grabbing the top spot for the first time in his initial harrier season.

CLEARING THE FINAL HURDLE, Joe Szurzewski bears down on the finish line as he races to another victory in the 200-yard high hurdles. Consistently improving during his two years on the varsity, Joe now rates as one of Central's top hurdlers.

SPRINTING DOWN FLAG STAFF HILL, sophomore Bob Friel crosses the finish line to score a first for Central in the Junior Varsity Invitational run. Central went on to win the meet with a low score of 27.

DETERMINED DUO OF VIKING RUNNERS, Chick Mangieri and Tom Sheehan, stride in unison toward the finish line as they complete the Schenley Park course in a first-place tie. This pair of veteran harriers spurred the team to a decisive victory over their arch-rivals, Mt. Lebanon.

Accent on Acceleration

ACCEPTING THE NEWEST ADDITION to the trophy case, Brother Fl. Emery receives the Mayor David L. Lawrence Trophy for his team's copping first place in the Central Invitational Meet. The Mayor's son, Gerry, does the presenting.

HOLDING IN THEIR HAND AND FEET the future of Central's prominence in the track world, the 1958 version of the varsity track team stops practice for a moment of relaxation. Kneeling: J. Roberts, T. Sheehan, A. Ejzak, D. Adams, A. Zangrilli, R. Penny, and W. Och. Second row: J. Szurzewski, J. Ryan, M. McAndrews, H. Schmidt, J. Ryan, R. Friel, R. Friday, and R. Burns. Third row: J. Ryan, P. Coyne, J. Fermanis, D. Sheffo, and J. Smiler.

Around the Track in 56 seconds

JOCKEYING FOR POSITION at the start of one of the intra-squad races which make up the heart of each practice session, these varsity runners prove to be evenly matched. The line on the track shows Pat Coyne barely ahead of Regis Ryan, who is closely followed by Bob Friel.

LANDING SMOOTHLY in the sawdust pit, Robert Penny completes another broadjump with precision. Besides garnering valuable points by his sprinting, Bob adds to the Viking total through his consistent jumping of nineteen or more feet.

STARTING HIS APPROACH in the javelin event, Joe Smiler strains every muscle to insure a first place finish. Besides his prowess with the javelin, Joe exhibited a determination to better his time for the quarter-mile run.

PREPARED TO SEND the javelin aloft, Jim Roberts concentrates on form and power, the two requisites of successful "throwing." Roberts also participates in the sprint races during the Central meets.

CENTRAL'S OUTSTANDING SPRINTER, Robert Penny, kicks his heels high as he practices his favorite event, the one hundred yard dash.

GETTING SET to give the shotput the "old heave", Don "Moose" Sheffo has his eye set on breaking the fifty foot mark. A consistent placer in the shotput event, Don also has hurled the discus close to the 140 feet flag.

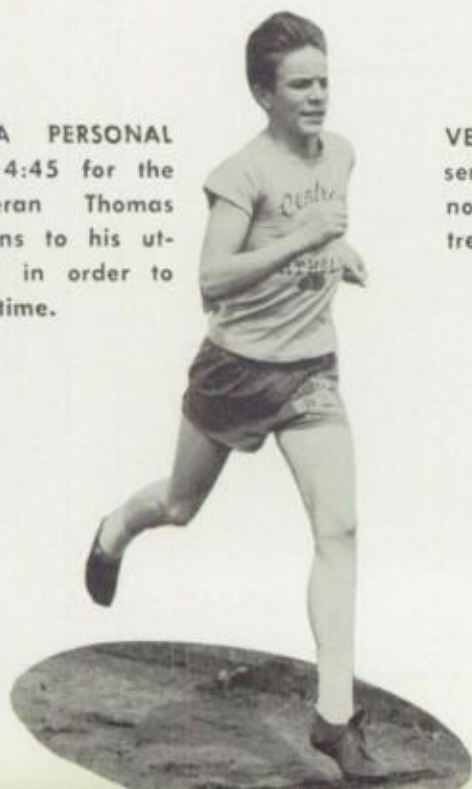

PROUDLY DISPLAYING their newly-won trophies, the J. V. cross country team gathers round their coach, Brother Fl. Emery, after defeating Mt. Lebanon. By this win over the Blue Devil, the little harriers avenged the sole defeat on an otherwise spotless record.

SHORT DISTANCE RUNNER, Al Ejzak, sprints down the homestretch in the 220 yard event.

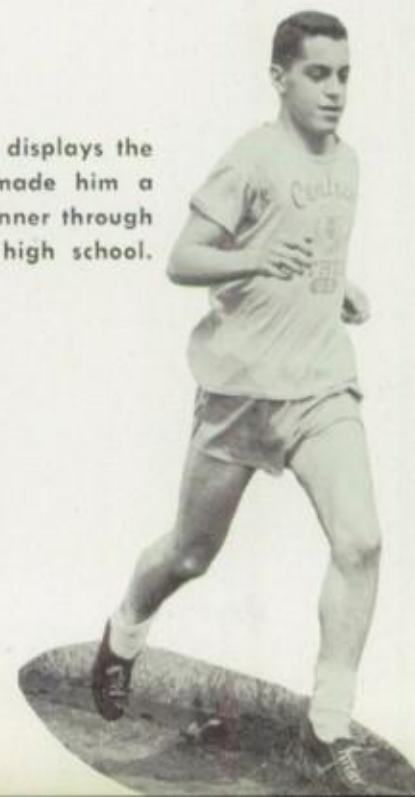

HAVING A PERSONAL MARK OF 4:45 for the mile, veteran Thomas Sheehan runs to his utmost speed in order to lower this time.

VETERAN OF FOUR SEASONS, senior Melvin McAndrews glides nonchalantly through his daily trek at Schenley Oval.

ALBERT ZANGRILLI displays the form which has made him a consistent letter winner through his four years of high school.

Men of Fluid Velocity

THEIR LAST LEAP for the glory of the team is reflected in the determined faces of these senior members of the swimming squad. Demonstrating the various positions for starting are Frank Piontek, Bernard Carey, Ted Rzesnik, and John McMahon.

SENIOR SWIMMERS, "Froggy" Piontek and "Splash" McMahon, smilingly listen to their faults as pointed out by Brother D. Stephen, moderator of the natators. In the event Brother misses any mistakes, he will have help from the assistant coach, Mr. Daniel Wynn.

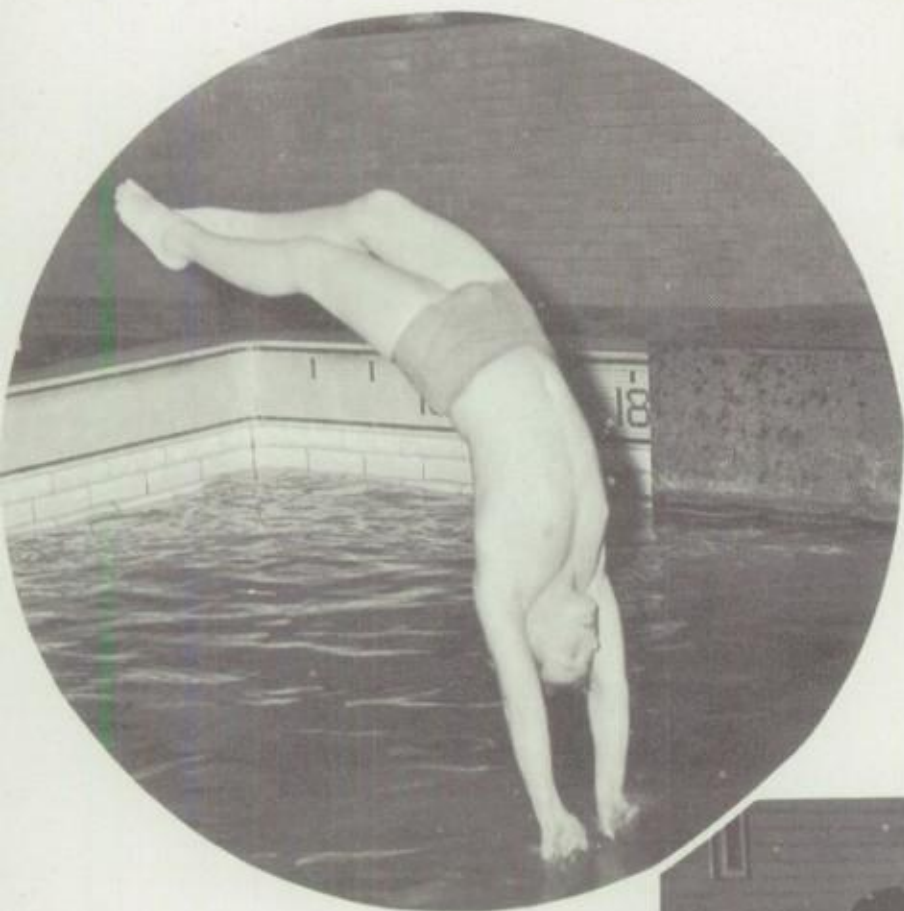

LIMITED ONLY BY THE HEIGHT of the ceiling, Colin McDermott prepares for a jack-knife dive inside the frost covered windows of the pool at Frick School. Colin, a freshman, answered the call for divers and has aided the team considerably by his timely points.

READY, WILLING, AND WAITING their turn to stroke the twenty yards to the other end of the pool, Tom Maher, Tom Donatelli, Bernard Carey, and Pat Gormley brace themselves on the wall to receive maximum acceleration. These upperclassmen have garnered more than one hundred points among them during the course of a two-month season.

BENDING OVER BACKWARD for the benefit of the team, Bob Fletcher appears to wince at the temperature of the water which he is about to enter head first.

TOMBSTONES FOR THE FROGMEN—C. Scarlatta, J. McMahon, R. Scanlon, and R. Raynovich hand kickboards to their waterbound associates, T. Lanheady, P. Zelonis, J. McElligott, and W. Hammer. Four times per week throughout the swimming season, the team gathers at Frick School for intensive practice sessions.

CENTRAL'S PROUD BOWLING CHAMPS and their coach pose for the cameraman before white-washing another opponent. Kneeling: D. Mitsch, A. Vogel, and K. Kern. Standing: T. Kozlowski, R. Marlinga, F. Bence, and Brother Claude, coach.

TRYING TO WIDEN THEIR LEAD, Captains Frank Funa and Fred Bence ignore Pat Crimmins' hat as they prepare to take their places on the alleys. In the background, Lou Kubus stands by in case Pat needs help with the scorekeeping.

UNDER THE CRITICAL EYES of their teammates, moderator, and a few loyal fans who flock to the lanes for the weekly match, A. Vogel, K. Kern, F. Funa, and F. Bence synchronize their shots for the benefit of the cameraman.

Bowling—

a power in motion

FRED BENCE, Captain of Team #1, launches another of his frequent strikes. In his second year on the team, Fred has consistently rated top honors in the Diocesan Catholic Bowling League.

THREE-YEAR MEN, Tim Kozlowski and Ray Marlinga flank their plump contemporary, "Burgess" Vogel. During their tenure on the team, they have seen Central take two championships, with much of the credit due to the efforts of this trio.

ARRIVING EARLY for their annual picture, Central's Team #2 displays their big advantage—manpower. Kneeling: P. Crimmins, T. Sorby, R. Buffo, E. Barvick, and J. Metro. Standing: E. Kwiatkowski, L. Kubus, J. Hanka, F. Funa, and R. Krevosh.

TRIED AND TESTED TIM KOZLOWSKI finishes his game in regal fashion. Pictured here, he is in the midst of rolling his third strike in the tenth frame of a 192 game.

Keen-eyed Riflemen Take Aim—

AIMING FOR a position on the varsity and a bull's-eye, senior Bob McLaughlin shows the rifleman's form. Captain Emil Bonavita checks the sighting of the target while Burgess Arnold Vogel awaits in the background to see if he can better McLaughlin's 96 score.

"THEY'RE LOADED" and ready to take their positions on one of the seven points of Pitt's range. In the various stages preliminary to firing, Bob Sestille, Joe Blatnica, and Mike Kollar show careful concentration in order to prevent any possible accidents.

DUSKMEN, who regularly practice in the late afternoon hours in their spacious quarters under the 60,000 seats of Pitt Stadium, pose before going to the line. Kneeling are R. McLaughlin, R. Sestille, A. B. Vogel, and D. Gennuso; standing: E. Bonavita, Captain of the Central Rifle Team, J. Sebes, M. Kollar, and A. Maryonowski.

AT THE CALL OF "Choose your weapons," Joe Blatnica, Fred Blahut, and Joe Zelonis pick the rifles best suited for them. In an attempt to better their scores, the fellows try to use the same gun each week.

ONE OF BROTHER GILBERT'S duties as moderator of the Rifle Team is solving the scheduling problems, especially in the first few weeks of the season. As Mike Kollar, Fred Blahut, and Emil Bonavita check the list, Brother shows the list of Christian Brothers' schools who, through the postal league, have joined Central in a form of mail order competition.

MEASURING THE RANGE with his transit, Brother Gilbert, Rifle Club moderator, tells Emil Bonavita the correct setting for his sight. Since the early days of January, the Rifle Team has been able to utilize the range beneath Pitt Stadium through the generous arrangements of the Pitt personnel.

Intramural Interlude

HIGH-SCORING JUNIOR, Dominic Stratiff, demonstrates the foul-shooting technique that enabled him to compile a 17.4 average in leading his 5 JS team to the championship of the intramural league. In addition to participating in the games as a player, Dom also acted as referee for other departmental intramural tussles.

CAPTURE ON THE COURT is effected by Tom Maher as he goes into the air for a rebound in the 5 JS-2 JC intramural championship contest. All other participants apply the brakes and wait and wait for the result of Tom's battle with the ball. The game ended with 5 JS winner, 37-32.

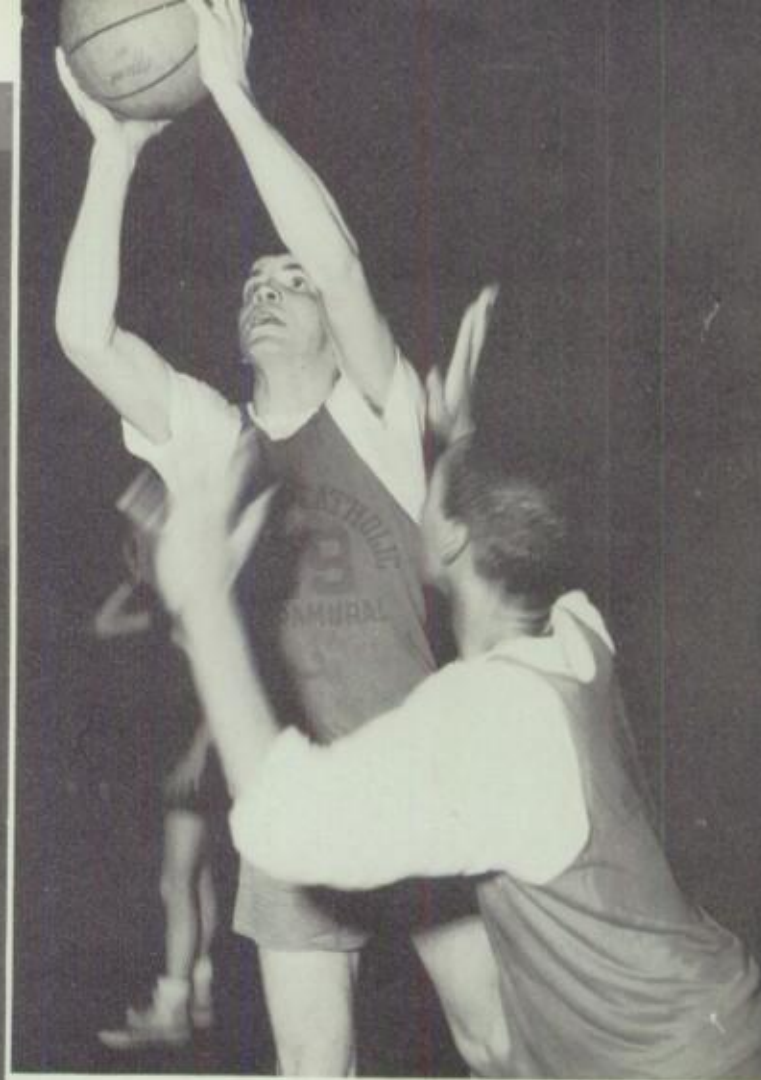

SENIOR STANDOUT in the intramural competition was Bob Brennan, who led his 3 SC squad to victory in the hard-fought league. Bob's 20.1 average was accumulated at the expense of the five opponents who lost to the undefeated businessmen.

SUCCESSFUL SENIORS in the intramural competition were these members of the 3 SC squad. Posing left to right—First Row: T. Reda, J. Fischerkeller, V. Constantine, D. Doyle. Second Row: S. Orban, R. Brennan, J. Boyle, J. O'Donnell, and R. Liberatore. Missing from the photo was the team's coach, Mr. Kenneth Wagner.

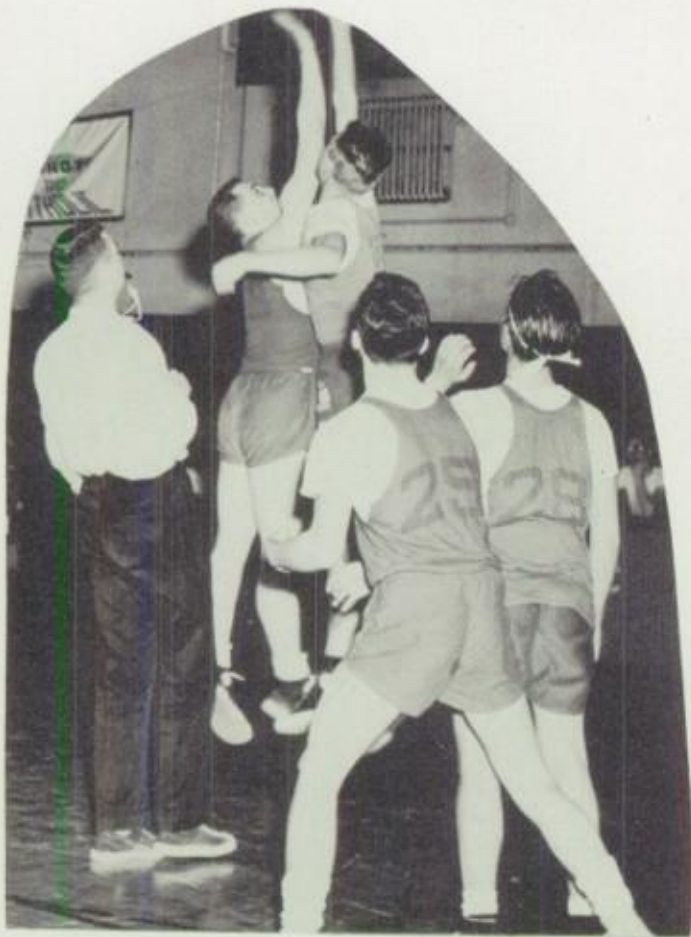

THE TRIUMPHANT in the junior intramural competition was this 5 JS squad, who garnered 5-1 record enroute to copping the championship. Members of the team include, first row: W. McCullough, R. Ceminera, G. Greer, G. Kirby. Second row: D. Stratiff, J. Treglia, T. Maher, R. D'Epiro, J. Larkin, Coach.

UP FOR ANOTHER two points on his deadly jump shot, Bob Brennan, 3 SC, is covered in vain by Paul Horne, 6 SS. In this, the final game of the year for the senior contenders, Bob scored seventeen points to lead his team to a 37-31 victory.

LOU VITTI, Secretary of the Senior Class and Head of Intramural Committee

UP FOR THE rebound go Jim Ashley and Garry Kalchthaler of 25 while Dick Nickel attempts to capture the ball for 15. After losing to 15 in a regular season game, 25 lost the championship to 15, 31-28.

MOVING IN for his deadly jump shot, 25's Tom Laffey prepares to add to his team's total despite the efforts of Ed Schuties. Larry Kalchthaler awaits a possible pass from the hard-driving Laffey.

GIVE AND GO tactics are executed by Tom Cygnarowicz of 15 as he prepares to pass to teammate Ed Schuties in an attempt to score. Guarding against the maneuver are Kalchthaler and Laffey of the runner-up 25 squad.

FOLLOWING THEIR exciting 31-28 victory over 25, Brother Richard's championship team, 15, pause in the celebration for the school photographer. First Row: (L-R) J. O'Grady, E. Shute, B. Shute, B. Zomak, and J. O'Malley. Second Row: J. Contrucci, R. Friday, R. Nickel, D. Betz, W. Sproule, T. Czgnarowicz, and Brother E. Richard.

TOP MAN among the freshman intramural scorers this year was Brother Firm. John and class 9 F's William Schack. Although Bill averaged some twenty points a game, oppositions downed 9 F before the final playoffs.

UNDISPUTED heirs to the freshman intramural championship honors, class 2 F, gather after decisively downing 8 F 42-28. Front row: J. Perry, E. Metro, T. Kyle, T. Qualey, J. Symborski; second row: R. Regan, J. Duffy, A. Caterino, J. Tavorieri, J. Nanusic, W. Faderewski; third row: R. Owens, J. Lamagna, J. Wojcicki, J. Studnicki, M. Puhalla, Brother Emery, Coach.

CEDRIC Hill and classmate, John D'Ambrosio, both of 7 F, shared honors as high scorers among the first year men in the intramural contests. Close to the top till the end, Mr. Wynn's 7 F was edged out by Brother Patrick's 8 F, 40-38.

INTRAMURAL Committeemen, who under the direction of Brother David Thomas, helped referee and score many of the games include (front) T. Massaro, T. Crimmins; standing: C. Rutter, D. Stratiff, R. D'Epiro, F. Bence, E. Drozynski, R. Cosgrove.

Base Athletes

BATTER UP! at West Penn Field, home ground for the Viking nine this year, finds Gary Lisotto facing Chuck Rutter in a practice session as "Timo" Grugurich does the catching.

THE CHOSEN who represent Central in this, the third, year that the Vikings have fielded a baseball team have been: Kneeling: T. Pasquerelli, J. Bentz, J. Kirby, V. Longo, F. Caricato, W. Faderewski, W. Breshahan; second row: Brother Raymond, Moderator, S. McDowell, R. Salerno, J. Studnicki, G. Lisotto, T. Rutter, T. Grugurich, Coach Probola; third row: R. Glackin, manager, D. Trosky, R. Dentel, R. Gordon, P. Benec, J. O'Toole.

A-Head Hunting

HUNTERS' ADMIRATION shows in the faces of these members of the hunting club as they discuss the techniques used by Paul Moore (far right) in bagging deer. Steve Briley, Tom Sheehy and Jerry Bender listen to the account of the "chase" for the umpteenth time.

"NEITHER SNOW NOR RAIN . . ." keeps the hunting club from the performance of its prescribed activities as is demonstrated by Emil Bonavita, club president, as he searches the surrounding area for game.

ARMS INSPECTION is the task of a pair of the hunting club's safer members, Emil Bonavita and Joe Zelonis, as they examine their rifles to insure the proper workings of the equipment in the event game should cross their path. Constituting only a small percentage of the club's large numbers, the duo is considered, however, among the group's more stalwart.

FAMILY GATHERING of the members of the Hunting Club takes place at the home of Brother Maurice during one of the club's journeys away from home. The club takes a number of field trips into surrounding areas each year in search of game.

TAKING TIME OUT for a picture are the hall monitors who preside over the halls and stairs during the lunch periods. They are—Bottom row: A. Zangarelli, M. Caterino, P. Semcic, J. Cochran. Middle row: F. Landgraff, R. Dugo, T. Logue, P. Marasco, C. Donough. Top row: R. Cortese, P. Dimperio, B. Rafferty, D. Sheffo, M. Pulice.

MODERN LANGUAGE HONOR SOCIETY—A conglomeration of Central students who take French, Spanish, and German, the members of this group attempt to develop a better understanding and appreciation of these languages through lectures, meetings, and essay contests. Brother Maurice is the moderator and founder of the organization. Bottom row: C. Montrose, K. Walsh, W. Kaveny, J. Wymard, G. Mitchell, and R. Deasy. Second row: W. Golle, W. Fronzcek, J. Diskin, and D. Ricci. Third row: P. Coyne, R. Gadomski, J. Dyer, C. Magee, and L. Fantozzi.

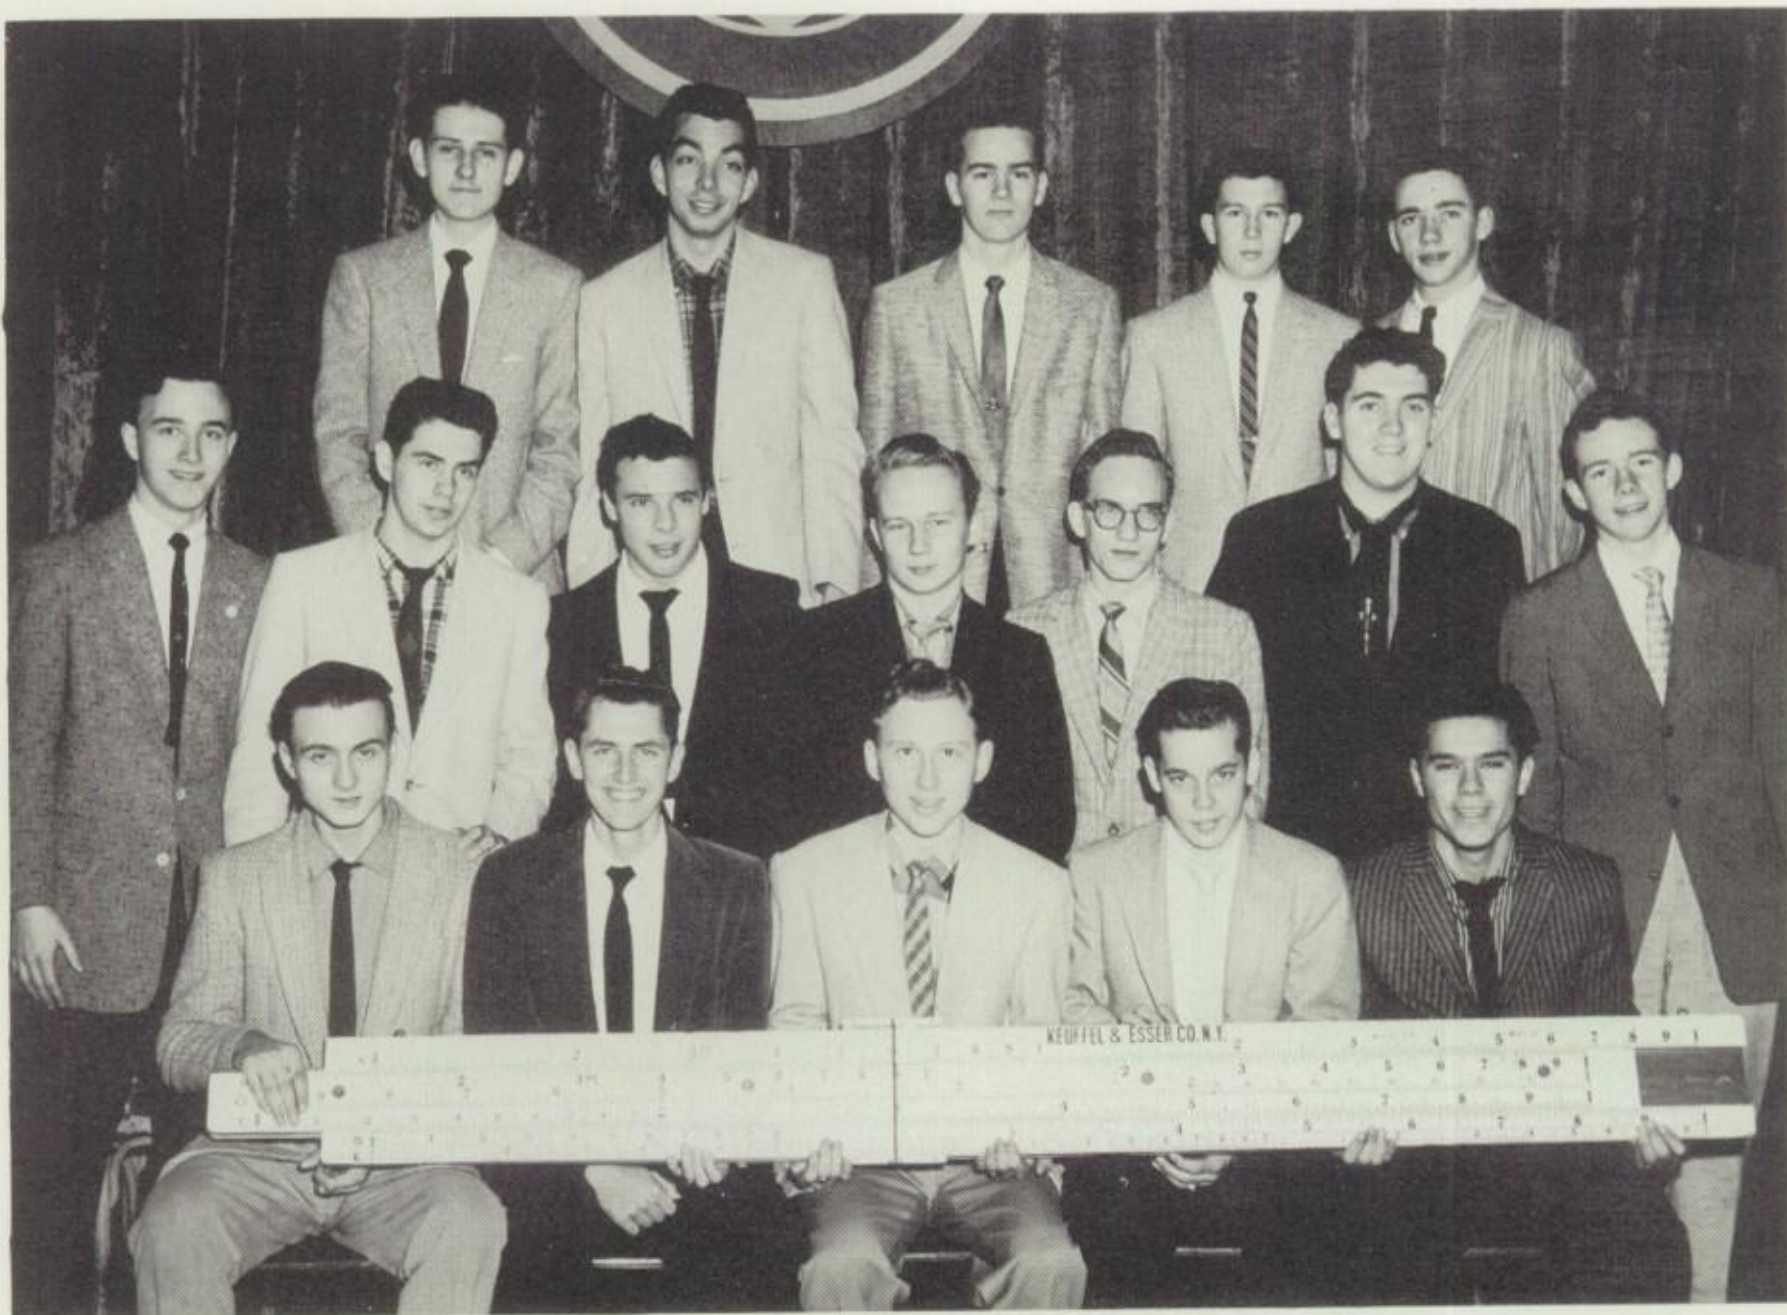

Stellar Fellas

CLASSICAL HONOR SOCIETY—In an attempt to preserve the last remnants of Rome's splendor and glory, the society stimulates interest in the Classics under the direction of Brother D. Richard. The organization sponsors an annual dance at Central for members throughout the diocese. The Central Catholic Chapter—At the board: D. Clement. First row: R. Falvo, D. Smith, R. Cooper, and R. Dickinson. Second row: T. Carney, J. Zelik, D. Edwards, J. Szurzewski, K. Oldenski, and H. Gailliot. Top row: J. Contrucci, J. Berkey, W. Ley, R. Sestili, T. Naulty, and P. McGuire.

HISTORY HONOR SOCIETY—Under the moderation of Brother E. Vincent, freshman history teacher, the society sponsors essay contests, bus trips to points of historical interest in this part of the state, and monthly meetings at various diocesan schools. The membership: (at rostrum) P. Crimmins, (seated) R. Gadomski, E. Kuzmic, J. Darnell, P. McGuire, (standing) J. DiFrancesco, F. Funa, J. Dyer, and R. Falvo.

MATHEMATICS HONOR SOCIETY—This organization (moderated by Brother D. Stephen) provides its members with an opportunity to participate in open competition with mathematically-inclined students of other schools by means of tests, term papers, and lectures. The members—First row: (l-r) J. Smiler, F. Funa, E. Kuzmic, C. Magee, and L. Fantozzi. Second row: D. Clement, F. Gabriel, R. Dean, J. Gonsowski, M. Snider, J. Shields, and G. Grant. Third row: R. Gadomski, P. Coyne, T. Carney, R. Deasy, and P. McGuire.

BUSINESS HONOR SOCIETY—Top-flight typists, juniors Louis Romito and Joseph Marcus, pause momentarily for advice from John Pelusi and Carmine Porco, who act as overseers for their less-experienced associates. Romito is the vice-president of the Diocesan organization.

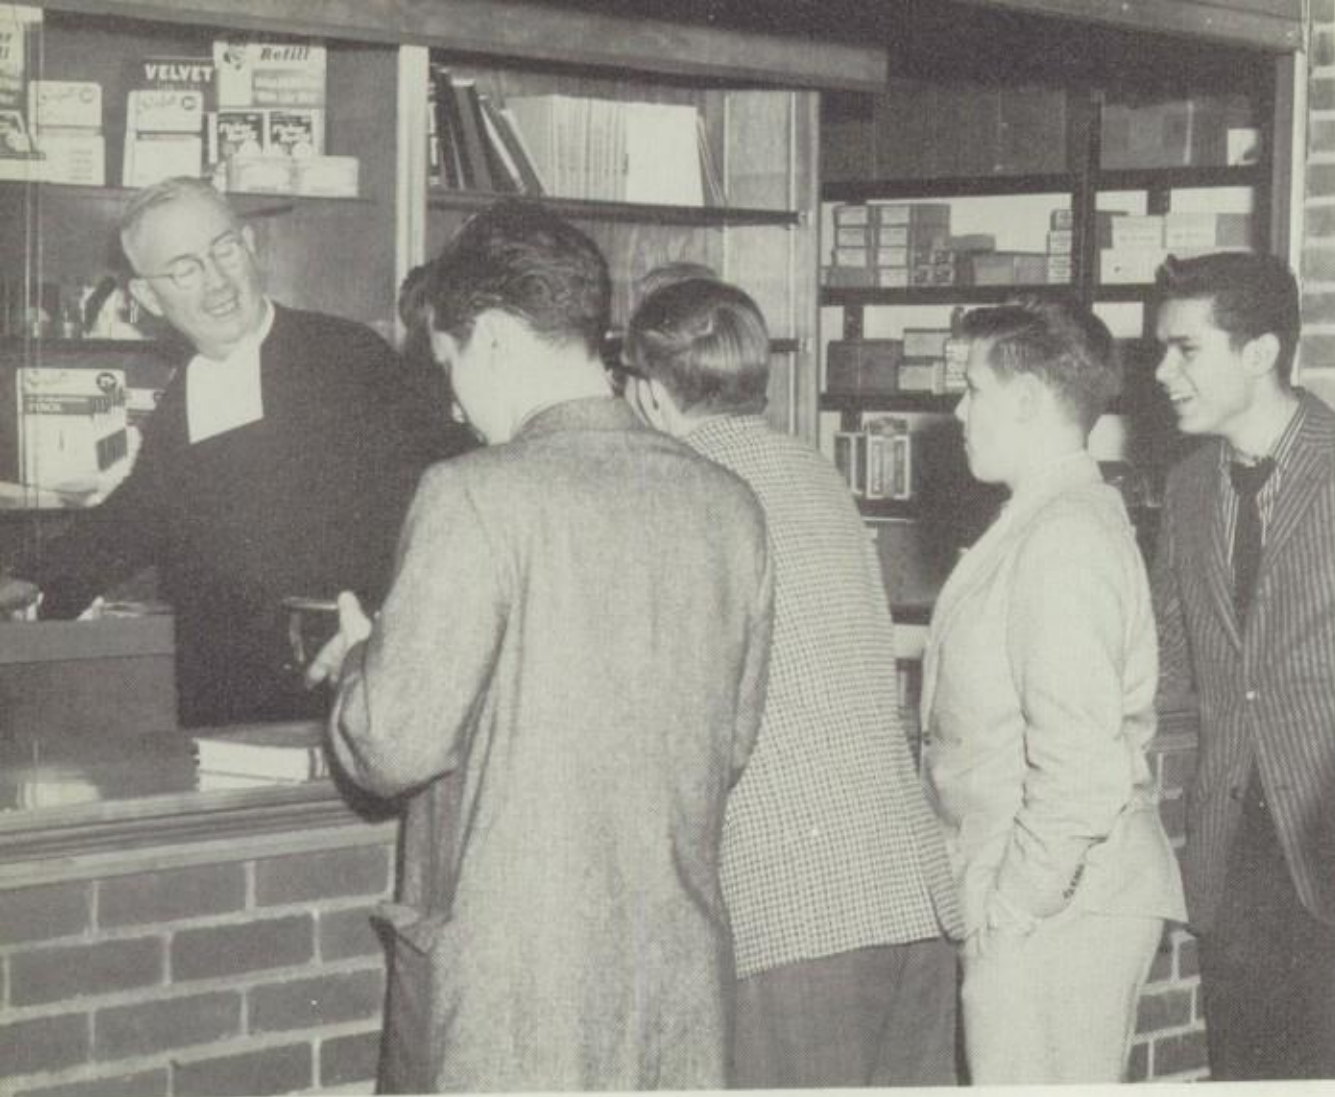

SCIENCE HONOR SOCIETY—Precaution predominates as the Science Honor Society, under the direction of Brother Gregory, hold a meeting. Reading from the fire extinguisher: F. Funa, E. Kuzmil, R. Gadomski, N. Niccolai, J. Bogalz, T. Carney (kneeling), J. O'Brien. Standing: R. Dean, J. Wymard, G. Mitchell, G. Pollakis, P. McGuire.

WRITERS HONOR SOCIETY—The newest of the honor societies, this Central delegation's head, Dick Deasy, is also the diocesan president. Through this society, Catholic educators hope to uncover and develop latent writing ability in the participants. Brother Francis Emery moderates the Central group. The membership—First row: D. Deasy, J. Clair, L. Fantozzi, J. Gonzowski, and D. Gennuso. Second row: P. Coyne, B. Carey, P. Crimmins, D. Clement, D. Edwards, J. DiFrancesco, and W. Fronzcek. Third row: W. Wessell, T. Carney, C. Walsh, J. Szurzewski, T. Naulty, R. Sestilli, C. Magee, F. Funa, and N. Niccolai. Top row: E. Kuzmik, D. Smith, R. Falvo, G. Mitchell, J. Wymard, P. McGuire, G. Grant, R. Dean, and M. Jordan.

"I TOLD YOU how much it was," states the exasperated Brother William as he meets a reluctant customer during his hours in the bookstore. Brother is responsible for caring for the many tasks that occur at Central's own department store.

VALIANT EXCUSES fall on the deaf ears of the Prefect of Discipline, Brother Justin, who stoically makes out the detention slips over the protests of Dave Clement. This is a daily task of the Prefect, whose duty it is to maintain the right order of things around the school.

Petrilli, J. Seaman, A. Colacito, J. McKeefery, J. Vroble, J. Brazin, J. Connors, U. Taylor.

HAPPY FACES AND FULL LUNCH BAGS combine to show that the destination of the queue of Centralites is the school cafeteria. This charge of the hungry brigade occurs three times daily as the 1850 students crowd the eatery for their noonday meal.

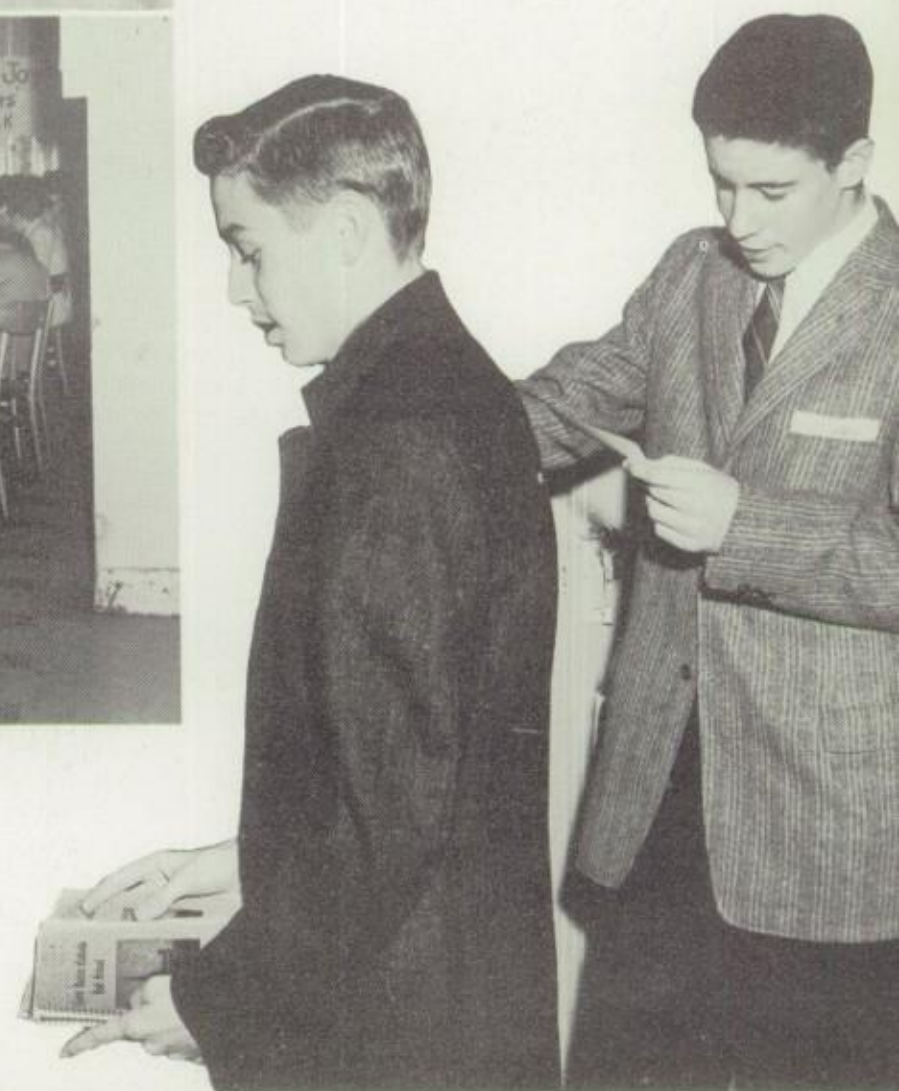

Of Their Yearbook

FAVORITE PERIOD of the school day is in the offing as third lunch students file down from the first floor to the cafeteria. We have yet to decide whether it was the prospect of lunch or of having his picture taken that warranted the gleam in the eyes of senior Stan Maluty (extreme right).

TOWERS WEEK provided pleasant distractions to this junior section of the school cafeteria. Flanked by yearbook propaganda signs on walls and pillars these lunch periods were enhanced by the two weeks cafeteria floor show staged by the yearbook staff.

LAST MINUTE check-up on homework assignments has brought on this impromptu before school corridor seminar as sophomore Bob Friel has Bill Sproule give official confirmation of his solution to the day's geometry problems.

BEHIND THE ALUMINUM CURTAIN, one of the additions that greeted the students this year was the "new look" that the bookstore enjoys. Besides the extra selling space that the movable aluminum panel provides, Brother William now has display space available on either side of the central area.

UNDECIDED (BUT NOT FOR LONG), these Centralites weigh the merits of the pictures displayed on the Publications Office door before making a downpayment on the '58 TOWERS. With the office the center of a school-wide effort, the "TOWERS WEEK" drive resulted in 1350 sales.

Of these Underclassmen

MISS BEGGY and her co-workers pause amid their books in the school library. Unknown by name even to Miss Beggy herself, these boys volunteered—even during class hours—to keep Pittsburgh dust from the school library shelves.

UNDER THE STILL, GREEN LEAVES of the last days of summer, the long line of Centralites move toward St. Paul's Cathedral for the official opening of the school year, the Mass of the Holy Ghost.

COURTESY IN THE CLOAKROOM—Bowling willingly to the dictates of Emily Post, Joe DiFrancesco graciously aids his date with her coat at a Saturday night dance. Providing a point of social focus for Central boys, these bi-weekly dances are attended by approximately 425 teenagers.

WORLD RENOWNED THESPIAN, Reginald Goode, gives a few pointers on his Shakespearean presentation to Charley Walsh as the remainder of the cast listens attentively. Gathered around the actor are Joe Blatnica, Bob Owens, Dom Ricci, Wayne Kompare, Mike Somma, and Tom Carney (seated).

"WHO CAN DECLINE 'NAUTA'?" asks Brother G. Edward to the members of class 5F during a daily Latin session. While the more studious of the group signal for recognition, the others hope the question is not directed to them personally.
